Says Public Wants It

President Makes No-Compromise Medicare Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has made his no-compromise stand on medical care for the aged more emphatic than ever. He insists on weaving it into the Social Security system. He says the public wants it that way.

Firing another broadside at the American Medical Association Wednesday, Kennedy repeated his prediction that Congress will adopt his plan this year if it reaches the House and Senate floors. And he contended that despite AMA opposition, "more and more doctors are supporting it."

Kennedy heatedly attacked the AMA and Republican critics of his medical care program at his news conference—a conference dominated by his strong views on the big legislative controversy of 1962. The questioning elicited these comments and charges:

Kennedy said he does not plan to follow up his current proposal for payment of hospital, nursing home and outpatient bills with a plan to cover doctors' bills. He accused critics of talking through both sides of the mouth. They criticized it one day, he said, for "going too far in limiting the relationship between doctors and their patients, and on another day attacked it for not including doctors."

AMA spokesmen have denounced the plan as "a cruel hoax." Kennedy said the association used the same words in unsuccessfully opposing Social Security in the 1930s. The AMA may not support this bill, he said, "but I think the American people will, and I think more and more doctors are supporting it."

Would he accept a compromise that omitted Social Security financing?

No, he replied, Social Security is the heart of the bill.

The 25-minute conference, shortest in his experience as President, covered these other points:

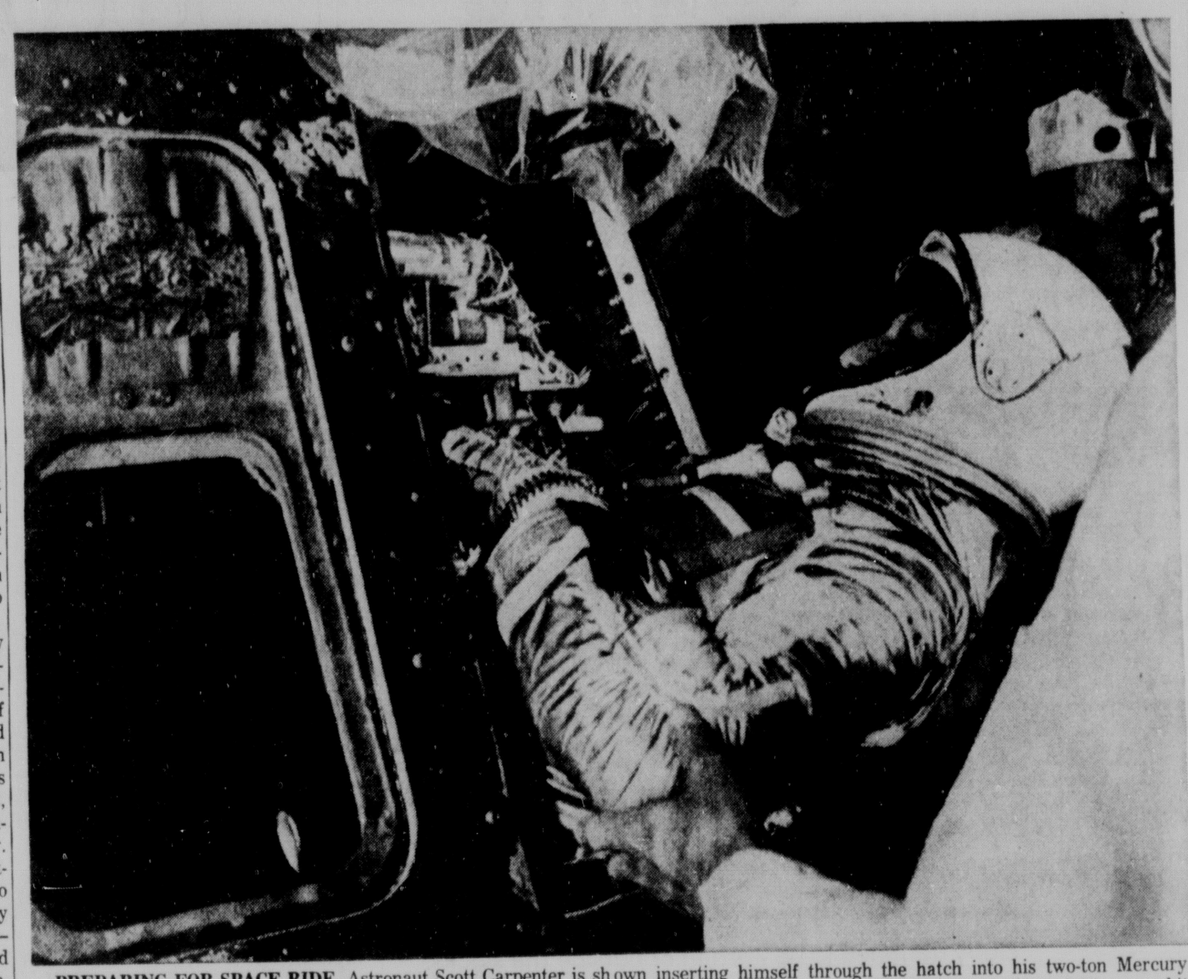

Chinese refugees—he announced the United States would admit several thousand refugees from hungry Communist China. The Justice Department said Wednesday night the flow would begin from Hong Kong in about two weeks.

Estes—In view of the possibility a federal official investigating Billie Sol Estes was murdered, Kennedy was asked if Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman could justify saying the affair had been ballooned out of proportion. Let's not judge the case, Kennedy said, until the FBI and Texas authorities have completed their inquiry. Kennedy said grain is being shifted from Estes' storage bins into normal channels of trade in a way that will not cost the taxpayers—and with more than usual speed "because of all the circumstances."

Southeast Asia—Remarking that "when you put troops in, they become difficult to take out unless the situation is stable," Kennedy said U.S. troops will remain in Thailand until events justify their withdrawal. An Army group in Thailand doesn't carry ammunition—but the ammunition is there and can be supplied at once if needed, he said.

Eisenhower — He and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower are appearing together on a program this week to advocate effective trade legislation, Kennedy said, but as to debating domestic issues with Eisenhower on television during next fall's congressional campaigns: "We will have to wait and see what the situation is."

Economy—In the long haul, he said, the stock market will keep in line with the economy, "and I think the prospects for the economy for this year are good."

PREPARING FOR SPACE RIDE. Astronaut Scott Carpenter is shown inserting himself through the hatch into his two-ton Mercury space capsule this morning at Cape Canaveral. After a "hold" of 45 minutes for ground fog to clear, Carpenter blasted into an orbit around the earth and reported by radio to ground stations that "My condition is excellent." He completed the first orbit at 10:19 (EDT). (UPI Telephoto)

Given Go-Ahead For Full Flight After Fuel Scare

BULLETIN
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter—a fuel-consumption problem in his capsule not considered serious — passed over Cape Canaveral at 11:53 a.m. (EDT) at the end of two orbits today and proceeded on into the third and final pass around the earth.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter soared around the globe today, but a feul problem in his Aurora 7 spacecraft raised the possibility that the flight would be ended after two orbits instead of the intended three.

Carpenter flashed over Cape Canaveral 99 miles high at 10:19 a.m. (EDT), ending his first circuit. But a few moments later, the Indian Ocean tracking ship near Mozambique reported that the Aurora 7 was using up its supply of hydrogen peroxide fuel at a more rapid rate than anticipated.

"This does not yet mean the flight will be terminated early," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "But there is a fuel consumption problem."

The hydrogen peroxide is squirted out from small holes around the surface of the capsule. If the capsule shifts off its planned attitude for some reason, jets fire to push it back on the proper attitude (its angle of relation to the horizon).

The astronaut can control the roll, pitch and yaw of his capsule by using his manual control stick to trigger these jet streams.

As he entered the second orbit, Carpenter was told to assume more manual control of Aurora 7 to conserve the fuel, which is used up more rapidly when the automatic system is operating. By taking manual control, Carpenter could hold a steadier course and thae eliminate some need for firing the fuel jets.

But this would limit the time he had available to perform some of his assigned tasks, just as it did on John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight last Feb. 20.

Glenn had to assume manual control for most of his last two orbits when two of the small jet openings became clogged and upset part of the automatic control system.

As the capsule passed over the Muchea and Woomera tracking posts in Australia on its second orbit, there had been no indication from the Mercury control center that any thought was being given to terminating the flight early.

Carpenter reported he was able to change the attitude of his spacecraft slightly merely by moving his head and arms vigorously.

As he swung into the second orbit, Carpenter released a balloon and plastic confetti from his capsule.

With the whole world following progress of his daring flight—just as it did when John H. Glenn Jr. became the first American to orbit the earth three months ago—Carpenter's Aurora 7 spaceship passed over Cape Canaveral at 10:19 a.m. (EDT) to complete one circuit.

Just 94 minutes earlier, at 8:45 a.m., a powerful Atlas missile had blasted off from this space port to fling Carpenter into the heavens at 17,532 miles an hour in an orbital path ranging from 99 to 164 miles above the earth.

Plans were to bring the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander down after three orbits for a parachute landing in the Atlantic Ocean at approximately 1:35 p.m. (EDT).

Carpenter reported to fellow astronaut Virigl I. (Gus) Grissom at the Mercury control center here that he and the capsule were in excellent condition after one orbit. He said he was ready to continue on with the full mission.

He reported no problems with the capsule's automatic control system as Glenn did on his initial orbit. Glenn was forced to con-

Viet Forces Kill 72 Reds, Capture 34

U.S. Army Planes, Copters Support Bloody Operations

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —South Vietnamese forces supported by fighter-bombers and U.S. Army helicopters have killed 72 Communist guerrillas and captured 34 others in an operation 70 miles south of Saigon, the government reported today.

The Mekong River delta operation, one of the bloodiest in recent weeks, began Wednesday and was reported continuing today.

Air strikes by South Vietnamese fighter-bombers inflicted the heaviest casualties among the Viet Cong guerrillas. The government also claimed its troops seized about a ton of arms and ammunition.

Government losses were given as seven killed and 10 wounded. Communist fire also wounded four American Army officers in one of the 14 helicopters ferrying Vietnamese troops into the fighting.

The helicopter pilot, Capt. Robert F. Corneil, 39, was shot in the heel and a U.S. spokesman said he will be unable to walk for some time. His next of kin is listed as his wife, Shirley Clairborne Corneil.

The three others were cut by flying metal and plexiglass but returned to duty after treatment.

Probe Broadens In Estes Deals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators disclosed today their agents have questioned more than 1,000 persons in the widening Billie Sol Estes case.

And, said the informant, many, many more will be questioned before the Senate Investigations subcommittee is ready to start its hearings into whether Washington influence helped Estes build his rickety business empire.

The report came after President Kennedy related at a news conference Wednesday that the FBI has moved into the investigation of the mysterious death of Henry Marshall, a Texas farm official, shot to death a year ago while checking into Estes' dealings under the government cotton program.

The FBI declined to comment on the unusual circumstance of its entry into what normally would be a local police case.

Last June, when Marshall was found dead, shot five times, his death was written off as suicide. But under the pressure of the Estes investigation, his body was exhumed Tuesday for an autopsy in Franklin, Tex. Later the county medical examinter told county grand jurors his preliminary finding was murder.

The examiner, Dr. J. A. Jachimczyk, was expected to make his final report today.

The FBI also had no comment on the case of Howard Pratt, 31, Chicago office manager of Commercial Solvents Corp., found dead in his car Wednesday of carbon monoxide poisoning. The company's financial relations with Estes, who bought great quantities of liquid fertilizer from the chemical firm, are under investigation.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said it had no evidence of any link between Estes and Pratt, but would look into the death because of a cryptic note found in Pratt's car which said in part "the burden of guilt is on my shoulders."

Investigators said they doubted Pratt had any connection with Estes.

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., plans to start hearings Monday on the Estes case, with political controversy already swirling about its ears.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, accused the subcommittee's staff of leaking to the press what he called politically inspired "petty hinting and subtle inuendo" about two brothers of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

His statements were prompted by a New York Herald Tribune story published Wednesday which quoted an expert on the House subcommittee's staff in connection

Earl L. Pugh Killed When Tractor Rolls

Farmer In Chester Area Found Under Implement By Son

Earl L. Pugh, 63, of Chester R. D. 1, prominent Hancock County farmer, who received several awards for his achievements, was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital Wednesday about 6:30 p. m. with injuries received in the upset of a tractor.

Mr. Pugh was operating a tractor on his farm on Route 2 when it overturned on him and he was found by his son, Charles Lee Pugh, of Chester R. D. 1 about 5:30 p. m.

He was born Aug. 27, 1898, in Hancock County to the late Charles L. Pugh and Cora Lee McElroy Pugh, who died March 16. He spent his lifetime on a farm.

In 1956, he received the Greener Hills Farm award and in 1957 he was named "Farmer of the Year" in the Northern Panhandle and placed fifth in the entire state.

He was a member of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Chester and the Fairview Grange.

Besides his son, he leaves his widow, Mrs. Marie Allison Pugh at home; a daughter, Mrs. James (Dorothy) Swearingen of Chester R. D. 1; two brothers, Donald Pugh and Roy Pugh, both of Chester; four sisters, Mrs. Hazel Caler of Aliquippa, Mrs. Marion

Inoculations For Polio Due Here Tonight

This is the day they give Sabin away.

East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville area residents may obtain the Type II oral polio vaccine tonight until 7 — or later if there is a demand — in the final series sponsored by the Columbiana County Medical Society.

Some 6,153 received the vaccine in clinics held in the northern part of the county Wednesday.

The last of the clinics will be held throughout the county Saturday, marking completion of the series which began in March with the Type I vaccine and continued in April with the Type III.

Physicians urged all adults and youngsters to obtain the vaccine in a move to provide maximum protection against the crippling disease. No charge is being made for the tasteless vaccine in this final series.

Clinic sites are at Westgate School, East Junior High School, Calcutta fire station, McDonald School at Wellsville, and Salineville High School. Saturday the Wellsville clinic will be at the high school.

Lee St.'s Use Assured And 'Battle' Ends

A tempest that boiled up Wednesday over the status of Lee St. in East End cooled to a quiet simmer today after city officials learned a man whose property it crosses had no intention of closing the street permanently, regardless of whether it is a public thoroughfare.

Municipal officials said they were assured by Mike Pusateri he had no intention of barring public use of the stretch, which runs across his property just east of the old carbarn property in East End.

Twelve individuals whose homes are located over Columbian Park complained yesterday to city and Liverpool Township officials that their use of the street had been cut off when Pusateri began excavating, using the earth for fill nearby.

Pusateri indicated he may seek to have the stretch dedicated as a public street, as he needs it for access to his own property, city officials said. In dedicating the street, he would receive city maintenance for the stretch and it would be taken off his real estate taxes, officials pointed out.

Officials who inspected the street yesterday afternoon and again this morning said the earth is soft as a result of the grading but the street is passable.

Blouse Catches Fire, Heights Child Burned

A 12-year-old Pleasant Heights girl suffered second degree burns of the right side and arm Wednesday afternoon at 4:20 when her blouse caught fire as she reached across an electric stove in the kitchen of the family home to operate a wall-mounted can-opener, police reported.

Karen Jones, daughter of Mrs. Donald M. Raney, 1254 Grandview Ave., was treated at a physician's office after her brother put out the flames and notified police.

The girl's brother, after extinguishing the fire, ran to Croft St. to notify Patrolman K. H. Mooney. The girl was taken to the physician's office in a cruiser.

When Picked As Astronaut

Carpenter Was Thankful Of 'Rescue' From Carrier

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —When Malcolm Scott Carpenter was selected in 1959 as one of the seven Mercury astronauts, he was thankful to be rescued from what he considered a grueling assignment—a two-year tour of duty on an aircraft carrier.

On the carrier, he would face long periods away from his family and the disappointing prospect of a nonflying job. The Mercury orders arrived just two days before the ship was to depart San Diego.

When the carrier commander asked him what he was going to do, Carpenter replied: "Ride the nose cone of an Atlas three times around the earth."

"I remember being a little amazed at my own words," Carpenter said recently. "I knew little about the program then. By now, I know a good deal more, but the whole idea fills me with awe."

Carpenter, 37, a Navy lieutenant commander, was thrust suddenly into the pilot role for the second U.S. manned orbit flight last March 15 when it was disclosed that the chosen astronaut, Air Force Maj. Donald K. Slayton, had minor heart trouble. Carpenter had been backup pilot for Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight on Feb. 20.

The handsome, crew-cut Carpenter has been a vital member of the astronaut team. His speciality is navigation and communications and he has worked extensively with engineers and technicians to develop a foolproof communications system for the Mercury capsule.

Carpenter is an exemplary citizen now, but it took him a little time to find himself. He said recently that in his youth he was a drifter and "sort of a no-good" in his home town of Boulder, Colo., where he was born May 1, 1925.

"I didn't study hard and I had to quit high school football because I couldn't devote myself to learning the plays," he said. "I stole things from stores and I was just drifting through, sort of a no-good."

After high school graduation in 1943, he enlisted in the Navy and got a start on his flying career in the Navy V-5 flight training program.

After World War II, he entered the University of Colorado but had trouble adjusting and twice was flunked out of school.

He became a laborer in Boulder. But not long afterward, when he was 20, he had an auto accident, which changed his whole life. He was unconscious for four days, and during a two-week convalescence in the hospital he decided to return to college.

He came within three credit hours of earning a degree in aeronautical engineering from Colorado in 1949 but encountered difficulty with a course in heat transfer. Before he could pick up the credits, he courted and married his wife, Rene, also a Colorado student, and rejoined the Navy.

After graduation from the Navy test pilot school in 1954, Carpenter began the dangerous job of working the kinks out of some of the nation's newest, fastest fighting planes.

Notice! Maintenance Local 172 will elect delegates Thurs., May 24th, 7:30 p.m. Room 3, I.B.O.P. Bldg. All members urged to be present. By order of Pres.—Adv.

The girl's brother, after extinguishing the fire, ran to Croft St. to notify Patrolman K. H. Mooney. The girl was taken to the physician's office in a cruiser.

A tempest that boiled up Wednesday over the status of Lee St. in East End cooled to a quiet simmer today after city officials learned a man whose property it crosses had no intention of closing the street permanently, regardless of whether it is a public thoroughfare.

Municipal officials said they were assured by Mike Pusateri he had no intention of barring public use of the stretch, which runs across his property just east of the old carbarn property in East End.

Twelve individuals whose homes are located over Columbian Park complained yesterday to city and Liverpool Township officials that their use of the street had been cut off when Pusateri began excavating, using the earth for fill nearby.

Pusateri indicated he may seek to have the stretch dedicated as a public street, as he needs it for access to his own property, city officials said. In dedicating the street, he would receive city maintenance for the stretch and it would be taken off his real estate taxes, officials pointed out.

Officials who inspected the street yesterday afternoon and again this morning said the earth is soft as a result of the grading but the street is passable.

When Picked As Astronaut

Carpenter Was Thankful Of 'Rescue' From Carrier

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —When Malcolm Scott Carpenter was selected in 1959 as one of the seven Mercury astronauts, he was thankful to be rescued from what he considered a grueling assignment—a two-year tour of duty on an aircraft carrier.

On the carrier, he would face long periods away from his family and the disappointing prospect of a nonflying job. The Mercury orders arrived just two days before the ship was to depart San Diego.

When the carrier commander asked him what he was going to do, Carpenter replied: "Ride the nose cone of an Atlas three times around the earth."

"I remember being a little amazed at my own words," Carpenter said recently. "I knew little about the program then. By now, I know a good deal more, but the whole idea fills me with awe."

Carpenter, 37, a Navy lieutenant commander, was thrust suddenly into the pilot role for the second U.S. manned orbit flight last March 15 when it was disclosed that the chosen astronaut, Air Force Maj. Donald K. Slayton, had minor heart trouble. Carpenter had been backup pilot for Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight on Feb. 20.

The handsome, crew-cut Carpenter has been a vital member of the astronaut team. His speciality is navigation and communications and he has worked extensively with engineers and technicians to develop a foolproof communications system for the Mercury capsule.

Carpenter is an exemplary citizen now, but it took him a little time to find himself. He said recently that in his youth he was a drifter and "sort of a no-good" in his home town of Boulder, Colo., where he was born May 1, 1925.

"I didn't study hard and I had to quit high school football because I couldn't devote myself to learning the plays," he said. "I stole things from stores and I was just drifting through, sort of a no-good."

After high school graduation in 1943, he enlisted in the Navy and got a start on his flying career in the Navy V-5 flight training program.

After World War II, he entered the University of Colorado but had trouble adjusting and twice was flunked out of school.

He became a laborer in Boulder. But not long afterward, when he was 20, he had an auto accident, which changed his whole life. He was unconscious for four days, and during a two-week convalescence in the hospital he decided to return to college.

He came within three credit hours of earning a degree in aeronautical engineering from Colorado in 1949 but encountered difficulty with a course in heat transfer. Before he could pick up the credits, he courted and married his wife, Rene, also a Colorado student, and rejoined the Navy.

After graduation from the Navy test pilot school in 1954, Carpenter began the dangerous job of working the kinks out of some of the nation's newest, fastest fighting planes.

'My Fair Lady' To End Record-Breaking Run

NLRB Examiner Raps Phone Firm

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—A National Labor Relations Board examiner has reprimanded the Chardon Telephone Co. in a recommended order handed down as the result of complaints by the Communications Workers of America (AFL-CIO).

The union had charged the company used unfair labor practices to block organization of 37 of the utility's workers by the union. The recommended order, issued Wednesday in Washington:

—Set aside the results of an election last November in which Telephone company workers turned down affiliation with the union 27-7 vote.

—Told the company to stop giving employes benefits to discourage union activity.

—Said an employes' committee should be broken up because it is dominated by the company.

Joseph E. Finley, lawyer for the union, said the company has 20 days to appeal the decision or the order will be binding.

William P. Clyne, attorney for Chardon Telephone, said the company would outline its position in a brief to the NLRB.

Scandals Of The First Order

All the growing Billie Sol Estes scandal needed to make it a humdinger was a suspicion of murder, and now it has that, too. The body of a former Agriculture Department official, Henry Marshall, has been exhumed to determine how he could have taken his own life, as local Texas authorities said he did last summer with a bolt-action rifle that had fired five bullets into his body.

The dead man is known to have been looking into cotton acreage allotments for Estes. What he may have found out is uncertain. But it suddenly becomes highly important to learn why, if he had not taken his own life, a report of suicide was put into the record in the first place.

There is a peculiarity about scandals of the first order—that when they start to sizzle and pop many things that otherwise wouldn't have been noticed become unexpectedly noticeable. If there can be any excuse for Agriculture Secretary Freeman's comment that the Billie Sol Estes case was "ballooned" out of all proportion to its actual importance, it would have to be Mr. Freeman's relative inexperience.

He should have spotted the raw material of scandal as soon as he learned about the scale of the Billie Sol Estes operation, especially in regard to grain storage in Texas. He should have spotted the finished product of scandal as soon as he pulled the string on the first of his own department's employes for hobnobbing unduly with this man whose scale of operations was gigantic even the benefit of non-Texans who never heard of Billie Sol Estes until recently that many people were dubious about the Estes operations. Perhaps some of them realized a scandal of the first order was in the making if outsiders ever got hold of it. But the fact is there was no scandal until outsiders did get hold of it, just as there was no scandal about Teapot Dome or the Louisiana Lottery until strangers moved in on something that had become routine stuff for the people in the know.

Iris Faircloth Blitch Speaks Out

The representative in Congress from the 8th district of Georgia, Iris Faircloth Blitch, has put into The Congressional Record what has been on the minds of many of her fellow Americans.

She objects to the over-publicized carryings on of English-born actress Elizabeth Taylor in Rome, where Miss Taylor is playing the role of Cleopatra in a costly motion picture of the same name being filmed there.

She thinks it might be well to bar both the actress and actor Richard Burton, a British citizen, from entering the United States, on the ground they are undersirable persons. Mrs. Blitch goes on to say this sort of thing makes the Communists chuckle and has a tendency to downgrade the United States. It hurts our foreign aid program, she points out. It is not good for our foreign policy. Therefore it should be stopped. It adds to the "Ugly American" image.

Mrs. Blitch was 50 last April 25 and has three grandchildren. It takes nearly three inches in the Congressional Directory to tell about her life to date, which includes going to the University of Georgia at the age of 17 and South Georgia College at 37. This has nothing to do with her antipathy for Miss Taylor, but it shows she is a woman of determination.

But to get back to Miss Taylor . . .

Mrs. Blitch is wrong about what Miss Taylor does for the national image, especially in relation to the "Ugly American."

Among Europeans who know and care the United States already has been so strongly tinctured and warped by gunmen, cowboys, crooks, junketing congressmen, tourists in odd-looking clothes, GIs and the kind of play actors featured in old movies that Elizabeth Taylor must be a fascinating change of pace.

We do not refer here to her behavior, which may be as colorful as the publicity buildup has made it appear to be. We refer only to her ability to command and get free advertising for "Cleopatra" in the press. It makes the previous fantastic space stealing of the beauteous Marilyn and Jayne seem like petit larceny.

No Socialized Medicine Here

"British doctors are voting with their feet," reported Lyle C. Wilson of United Press International in an analysis of Britain's National Health Service.

British-trained doctors are leaving the United Kingdom to practice elsewhere, preferably in the United States and Canada. Their places are being taken by trainees from India and Pakistan, chiefly.

Meanwhile, the number of medical students training in the United Kingdom is decreasing, which will mean a still more serious deficit in well-trained doctors in years to come.

What has it meant to Britain's National Health Service? Has it turned Britons against it? Mr. Wilson's report contains this statement:

"The United Kingdom health service is, in fact, socialized medicine. NHS is popular with British voters. They would drive from office any politician who sought to repeal it."

HERE, THEN, is the issue in the country most often cited as the horrible example of what happens under socialized medicine.

Though nothing of the kind is even being proposed in the United States, British experience is frequently cited here as the reason for avoiding socialized medicine. The fact is there is no analogy between conditions here and in Britain before National Health Service was started. Socialized medicine would have no appeal in the United States. It had a powerful appeal in Britain.

Medical care in Britain was virtually nonexistent for people outside the largest cities. Competent doctors were scarce and their services were not made avilable to the masses.

Socialized medicine had become a dynamic political issue by the end of World War II. It was the Labour party's great chance to show the British masses what could be done in their behalf by a socialist-minded government. For millions of Britons it was their first medical care. Small wonder they swamped it at the outset with demands for eye glasses, dental care, hearing aids and appliances to help the crippled and deformed.

THERE IS nothing comparable to that condition in the United States. The problem here is not how to make medical care available but how to meet the costs of medical care for aged people without earning power or personal savings—not the bill for the doctor, which usually is the smallest and the easiest to defer, but the hospital bill.

Medically, Briton's National Health Service has been a failure as far as British doctors are concerned. But sociologically, politically—and medically—it has been a success as far as British voters are concerned. That is the shape of the issue there.

Nothing proposed here suggests that it will be the shape of the issue in the United States where medical care is taken for granted—so much so, in fact, that the country has a problem of how to cope with the cost of caring for citizens whose life span outdistances their earning span thanks to good medical care.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Census shows American homes have more TV sets than phones. That's understandable. These days people are determined not to be interrupted by a phone call at the most dramatic moment of an Alfred Hitchcock mystery, a cowboy fight or a battle for top money in panel quiz.

There are folks who have had phones removed because they rang so often during a favorite TV program.

Telephone is highly useful, but you can't twist the dial on it and get a ball game, wrestling bout or fight between cavalry and Injuns. You may be pleased to get a phone call from Cousin Frisby, but not if you have to walk out on Boris Karloff.

It's painful to rush to phone during "Highway Patrol" and discover it's somebody who wants to know if you would like to buy a ticket to the firemen's ball?

Mortimer Topblower nearly tore down his own phone wires the other night when he was close to picking mystery killer, hurried to a phone call and got the words "Sorry, I guess I called the wrong number."

Big advantage telephone has over TV in public appeal these days is that it gives no commercials, and no detailed hospital operations. You can always use phone without getting advice on how to clean teeth or wax a floor. That's a break.

Telephone once meant a sort of companionship and ready touch with outside world, but since TV came in, putting Broadway, Hollywood, Las Vegas, the White House, etc., into our living room, it has lost its warmth. (It is also easier at times to get a TV show than a phone call.)

We have switched our phone to TV room, but it did no good. We tried to listen to TV show and carry on phone conversation jointly. Taped recording would have run like this: "Hello? . . . Bang! Bang! . . . Who is this? . . . Aunt Minerva? . . . Come out ring? . . . Drop that gun! . . . You're surrounded. . . . You haven't a chance. . . . Yes, it's nice to hear from you, Aunt Minerva. . . . One more move and we'll shoot. . . . Bang! Bang! . . . Aunt Minerva! . . . Aunt Minerva! . . . Answer me. What happened?" etc.

THERE ARE FOLKS who think American Medical Association should see a doctor and find out what's wrong with it.

Locals Ignore Kennedy Plea

By Victor Riesel

I would not take bread out of the mouths of babes or bricklayers, plasterers or plumbers. But here I'm talking of cake with heavy frosting on top running down over the fringes. I talk of it because I've been listening to President Kennedy's marathon series of speeches.

Victor Riesel

Virtually each moment on the platforms with him, there were national labor leaders who applauded, cheered and wrung his hand. But with his glistening profile and wit he might as well have been a matinee idol in old-fashioned personal appearances.

Thousands cheered. They listened but they heard not the message.

He asked for responsibility.

Even as President Kennedy, with national labor chiefs right there on the platform, was asking all sides to hold the line, local leaders of unions in the $60 were hacking the line to pieces.

In the East, one plasterers' local has just won a $33-a-week pay increase.

PLASTERING is a difficult trade. Members of the New York Local 60, which has just wound up its newest contract, put in a hard day's work—six hours long. But a $33-a-week increase effective over the next 18 months is a good hike.

Here at a special White House secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg, have been asking that wage increases be kept to about 3 per cent. The Plasterers walked off with a 23.4 per cent jump.

When all this finishes taking effect on Jan. 1, 1964, the members of this 2,000-man local will be earning $174 a week for 30 hours work straight time—plus another 35 cents an hour for welfare (health insurance, etc.) and another 55 cents an hour for pensions.

Their coworkers, the plumbers of New York, have twice now (the first time on May 8), and soon will again, remind the plumbers' association that the 5-hour day (reduced from seven) positively will be an issue in the coming negotiations' next March.

The industry expects to stand pat. There may be a strike. This would paralyze $1.25 billion worth of annual construction—for these are the men who have worked on the U.N. Building, the Empire State Building and Rockefeller Center.

Nor are such demands limited to the East Coast or the now famous Northern California strike area, where at this writing, some $3½ billion worth of construction has been halted.

IN SPOKANE, WASH. the Carpenters Union is now asking for a 75 cent-an-hour increase over a three year period—plus double time for overtime.

In Eastern Michigan, the Reinforced Steel Workers Union has asked for virtually $1-an-hour more as a pay and benefit increase package. Also in the asking is 40 hours' pay for a 35-hour week.

Construction tasks are hard work, but the construction of a United States powerful enough to stand off the competition of the New Europe is tougher. These demands spread to other areas and other businesses as large as the steel industry.

The other day Arthur Goldberg received a letter from a national negotiator in the construction field.

"There is nothing," he wrote, "provincial or local in modern construction labor settlements. With communications what they are today, unions in any area know exactly what others are getting elsewhere. Soon the wave of local increases mounts to nationwide proportions. When a pattern is set, it begins to expand rapidly."

Mr. Goldberg replied by asking for as many specific cases as possible.

Arthur Goldberg was aware that he was just not asking for data on a few split level ranch type projects costing more than a billion dollars. There are highways, freeways, airports, federal buildings, dams, and vast new, as yet secret, defense and sky-piercing projects.

MR. GOLDBERG got this data on May 15. He said he would pass it on to those who are making policy on these matters. He didn't say who. It could be the economic advisers. It could be President Kennedy himself.

Who ever it is, that inner-sanctum man has a problem. Suppose the President does really get as tough as he did with Big Steel, how can anyone bring the local labor leaders in line, across the country, in a hundred communities.

They are realists. They know they aren't going to be called into the White House. They know aides. They know they can tell them off.

They know a crackdown would have to mean national White House wage-price fixing. They know this won't happen. So they pile it on. Is no appeal to reason possible?

We talk here of eating cake, not bread. A few more economic calories and this country will inflate like a Navy balloon and go about as high.

Medical Care Debate

By David Lawrence

Financing Seen Key To Care For Aged

Everybody is for medical care for the aged. Republicans and Democrats, critics and advocates of specific legislation alike — all recognize that the sick must be cared for always.

David Lawrence

The real debate is over what method, what plan, what means of financing shall be adopted. Demagoguery will not help to find the solution.

President Kennedy's speech on Sunday was not an adequate outline of the basic issues. He talked off-the-cuff on a television hookup and said some things he never would have said if he had prepared his speech in advance. There were, for instance, sentences like these:

"I visited twice, yesterday and once today, a hospital, where doctors labor for a long time, to visit my father. It isn't easy — it isn't easy. He can pay his bills, but otherwise I would be. And I'm not as well off as he is. But what happens to him and to others when they put their life savings in, in a short time?"

It so happens that the elder Kennedy is reportedly worth more than $100 million, and the President himself, it has been estimated in the press reports, is worth a sum way up in the millions—some say $10 million.

The above quotation might give the impression that the President was worrying about hardships upon the wealthy. Actually, he wasn't.

Later on, in the same speech, he said the millionaries would not mind contributing $12 a month to Socal Security and that, anyway, "the national government, through the tax laws, already takes care of them, because over 65 they can deduct all their medical expenses."

The President certainly wasn't describing a situation analogous to that which confronts many people. His plan calls for an increase in Social Security taxes — in some cases by as much as 17 per cent. The new tax will apply to 74 million persons under Social Security.

All this is designed to take care of the minority who may get sick in old age and have to go to a hospital or nursing home. The new project, however, doesn't provide payments for doctors' bills, but only hospital costs and nursing care over and above the first $90.

Opponents insist that the needy can be taken care of by a direct appropriation by Congress each year without raising the Social Security taxes. The objection of the President to this is that it requires a "means test," or what he called in his Sunday speech a "pauper's oath."

The fact is that the document signed by the patient would be confidential. It's like his income tax return, which certainly is not open to public view.

MANY PERSONS who "go on relief" have to sign certain papers. They don't seem to mind a "means test." The government could, of course, designate by another name the money to cover the needy. It could be called a "refund" on previously paid taxes.

Persons who are 65 years of age or over and who now are without means would hardly object to a "refund" of what they have paid before over the years to cover a variety of social-welfare programs of the government that didn't benefit them directly.

There's a law on the statute books now to take care of the aged who are sick. It is called the Kerr-Mills bill, passed in 1960. It matches funds put up by the states to care for those who cannot pay their medical bills. It covers doctors and nursing as well as hospital bills. It is in operation in many states.

Funds for hospital bills for the aged can be provided through private insurance or from general taxes and thus avoid another cut in "take-home pay" for the workers of America. The average employe realistically considers his take-home pay as the net amount available to him for current expenses, whether he or she is 21 years old or 60.

The added Social Security tax for medical care for the aged is estimated at $1.6 billion for the first year and would rise to $1.9 billion in five years. This means that the total take-home pay of the employe and the profits of corporations will be cut by that amount. For the employer pays half of the extra social security tax increase.

Also, when an item of $1.6 billion is added to wage costs in the national economy, it is eventually reflected in higher wages and higher prices. Workers are promptly told by the labor unions that the cut in take-home pay will be offset by an increase in wages.

A DIRECT appropriation by Congress could eventually mean less expense than the Social Security levy. It could be imposed through the general tax structure on those who could best afford to pay it.

The administration plan, moreover, doesn't cover everybody. There are, for instance, 9 million persons in the labor force, including the self-employed, who are not covered now by Social Security. Also, about 3 million individuals already 65 years of age or older are not eligible for Social Security benefits and would receive no medical-care aid under the Kennedy play.

So it isn't a case of hard-hearted folks opposing medical care for the aged. Everybody is in favor of this benefit. But it is a case of hard-headed financing that will put the least burden on the middle-aged and the young, so many of whom for long years ahead are going to be paying to the government money for some things their families may never need. Systems of voluntary insurance are popular nowadays and are gradually covering more and more people.

There is supposed to be political mileage, however, for the administration in raising the issue of medical care for the aged and giving the impression that the critics are cruel persons who are opposed to providing such care.

Scandals Of The First Order

All the growing Billie Sol Estes scandal needed to make it a humdinger was a suspicion of murder, and now it has that, too. The body of a former Agriculture Department official, Henry Marshall, has been exhumed to determine how he could have taken his own life, as local Texas authorities said he did last summer with a bolt-action rifle that had fired five bullets into his body.

The dead man is known to have been looking into cotton acreage allotments for Estes. What he may have found out is uncertain. But it suddenly becomes highly important to learn why, if he had not taken his own life, a report of suicide was put into the record in the first place.

There is a peculiarity about scandals of the first order—that when they start to sizzle and pop many things that otherwise wouldn't have been noticed become unexpectedly noticeable. If there can be any excuse for Agriculture Secretary Freeman's comment that the Billie Sol Estes case was "ballooned" out of all proportion to its actual importance, it would have to be Mr. Freeman's relative inexperience.

He should have spotted the raw material of scandal as soon as he learned about the scale of the Billie Sol Estes operation, especially in regard to grain storage in Texas. He should have spotted the finished product of scandal as soon as he pulled the string on the first of his own department's employes for hobnobbing unduly with this man whose scale of operations was gigantic even the benefit of non-Texans who never heard of Billie Sol Estes until recently that many people were dubious about the Estes operations. Perhaps some of them realized a scandal of the first order was in the making if outsiders ever got hold of it. But the fact is there was no scandal until outsiders did get hold of it, just as there was no scandal about Teapot Dome or the Louisiana Lottery until strangers moved in on something that had become routine stuff for the people in the know.

Iris Faircloth Blitch Speaks Out

The representative in Congress from the 8th district of Georgia, Iris Faircloth Blitch, has put into The Congressional Record what has been on the minds of many of her fellow Americans.

She objects to the over-publicized carryings on of English-born actress Elizabeth Taylor in Rome, where Miss Taylor is playing the role of Cleopatra in a costly motion picture of the same name being filmed there.

She thinks it might be well to bar both the actress and actor Richard Burton, a British citizen, from entering the United States, on the ground they are undersirable persons. Mrs. Blitch goes on to say this sort of thing makes the Communists chuckle and has a tendency to downgrade the United States. It hurts our foreign aid program, she points out. It is not good for our foreign policy. Therefore it should be stopped. It adds to the "Ugly American" image.

Mrs. Blitch was 50 last April 25 and has three grandchildren. It takes nearly three inches in the Congressional Directory to tell about her life to date, which includes going to the University of Georgia at the age of 17 and South Georgia College at 37. This has nothing to do with her antipathy for Miss Taylor, but it shows she is a woman of determination.

But to get back to Miss Taylor . . .

Mrs. Blitch is wrong about what Miss Taylor does for the national image, especially in relation to the "Ugly American."

Among Europeans who know and care the United States already has been so strongly tinctured and warped by gunmen, cowboys, crooks, junketing congressmen, tourists in odd-looking clothes, GIs and the kind of play actors featured in old movies that Elizabeth Taylor must be a fascinating change of pace.

When a pattern is set, it begins to expand rapidly."

Mr. Goldberg replied by asking for as many specific cases as possible.

Arthur Goldberg was aware that he was just not asking for data on a few split level ranch type projects costing more than a billion dollars. There are highways, freeways, airports, federal buildings, dams, and vast new, as yet secret, defense and sky-piercing projects.

MR. GOLDBERG got this data on May 15. He said he would pass it on to those who are making policy on these matters. He didn't say who. It could be the economic advisers. It could be President Kennedy himself.

Who ever it is, that inner-sanctum man has a problem. Suppose the President does really get as tough as he did with Big Steel, how can anyone bring the local labor leaders in line, across the country, in a hundred communities.

They are realists. They know they aren't going to be called into the White House. They know aides. They know they can tell them off.

They know a crackdown would have to mean national White House wage-price fixing. They know this won't happen. So they pile it on. Is no appeal to reason possible?

We talk here of eating cake, not bread. A few more economic calories and this country will inflate like a Navy balloon and go about as high.

Medical Care Debate

By David Lawrence

Financing Seen Key To Care For Aged

Everybody is for medical care for the aged. Republicans and Democrats, critics and advocates of specific legislation alike — all recognize that the sick must be cared for always.

David Lawrence

The real debate is over what method, what plan, what means of financing shall be adopted. Demagoguery will not help to find the solution.

President Kennedy's speech on Sunday was not an adequate outline of the basic issues. He talked off-the-cuff on a television hookup and said some things he never would have said if he had prepared his speech in advance. There were, for instance, sentences like these:

"I visited twice, yesterday and once today, a hospital, where doctors labor for a long time, to visit my father. It isn't easy — it isn't easy. He can pay his bills, but otherwise I would be. And I'm not as well off as he is. But what happens to him and to others when they put their life savings in, in a short time?"

It so happens that the elder Kennedy is reportedly worth more than $100 million, and the President himself, it has been estimated in the press reports, is worth a sum way up in the millions—some say $10 million.

The above quotation might give the impression that the President was worrying about hardships upon the wealthy. Actually, he wasn't.

Later on, in the same speech, he said the millionaries would not mind contributing $12 a month to Socal Security and that, anyway, "the national government, through the tax laws, already takes care of them, because over 65 they can deduct all their medical expenses."

The President certainly wasn't describing a situation analogous to that which confronts many people. His plan calls for an increase in Social Security taxes — in some cases by as much as 17 per cent. The new tax will apply to 74 million persons under Social Security.

All this is designed to take care of the minority who may get sick in old age and have to go to a hospital or nursing home. The new project, however, doesn't provide payments for doctors' bills, but only hospital costs and nursing care over and above the first $90.

Opponents insist that the needy can be taken care of by a direct appropriation by Congress each year without raising the Social Security taxes. The objection of the President to this is that it requires a "means test," or what he called in his Sunday speech a "pauper's oath."

The fact is that the document signed by the patient would be confidential. It's like his income tax return, which certainly is not open to public view.

MANY PERSONS who "go on relief" have to sign certain papers. They don't seem to mind a "means test." The government could, of course, designate by another name the money to cover the needy. It could be called a "refund" on previously paid taxes.

Persons who are 65 years of age or over and who now are without means would hardly object to a "refund" of what they have paid before over the years to cover a variety of social-welfare programs of the government that didn't benefit them directly.

There's a law on the statute books now to take care of the aged who are sick. It is called the Kerr-Mills bill, passed in 1960. It matches funds put up by the states to care for those who cannot pay their medical bills. It covers doctors and nursing as well as hospital bills. It is in operation in many states.

Funds for hospital bills for the aged can be provided through private insurance or from general taxes and thus avoid another cut in "take-home pay" for the workers of America. The average employe realistically considers his take-home pay as the net amount available to him for current expenses, whether he or she is 21 years old or 60.

The added Social Security tax for medical care for the aged is estimated at $1.6 billion for the first year and would rise to $1.9 billion in five years. This means that the total take-home pay of the employe and the profits of corporations will be cut by that amount. For the employer pays half of the extra social security tax increase.

Also, when an item of $1.6 billion is added to wage costs in the national economy, it is eventually reflected in higher wages and higher prices. Workers are promptly told by the labor unions that the cut in take-home pay will be offset by an increase in wages.

A DIRECT appropriation by Congress could eventually mean less expense than the Social Security levy. It could be imposed through the general tax structure on those who could best afford to pay it.

The administration plan, moreover, doesn't cover everybody. There are, for instance, 9 million persons in the labor force, including the self-employed, who are not covered now by Social Security. Also, about 3 million individuals already 65 years of age or older are not eligible for Social Security benefits and would receive no medical-care aid under the Kennedy play.

So it isn't a case of hard-hearted folks opposing medical care for the aged. Everybody is in favor of this benefit. But it is a case of hard-headed financing that will put the least burden on the middle-aged and the young, so many of whom for long years ahead are going to be paying to the government money for some things their families may never need. Systems of voluntary insurance are popular nowadays and are gradually covering more and more people.

There is supposed to be political mileage, however, for the administration in raising the issue of medical care for the aged and giving the impression that the critics are cruel persons who are opposed to providing such care.

Purely Personal

The only bright spot in the Southeast Asia fracas is the fact anyone can be an expert on the names involved. Woon Hoo is holding out against Wang Poo, with Pung Sung holding the balance of power in Zing Ping. Who knows Hoos Ho from Wot's Wot?

When even baseball players talk about the rabbit in the baseballs, it seems absurd for the father images of the game to be arguing the reverse, as they have been doing since the memory of umpires runneth not to the contrary.

Having suffered through the last few "Emmy" shows I still can't understand what keeps the television people from making as big a production out of their whinging as the movie people make out of "Oscars."

Some of my best friends are doctors. My brother's a doctor. One of my sons is in medical school. I once had ideas about studying medicine myself. And to all doctors I still say, "Hold your fire, gentlemen, until you see the whites of their eyes, or when the fateful moment comes you'll be out of ammunition."

I keep seeing "inspired" little pieces of writing about how the public — that's me — has turned against compact cars and is demanding a return to two-ton showboats. Look, fellas, it takes two cars at my house, one for me, one for the missus. She has the two-ton showboat, which does double duty for funerals, weddings and light hauling. I have not turned against my compact that gives me more than 30 miles to the gallon. Quit kidding.

The esteemed Peace Corps has released its first statistics on connubialism — 11 marriages so far, one baby and an undetermined number of betrothals. When this word gets around, the Peace Corps will be as popular as coeducation, the greatest marriage mart up to this time.

I like the names bestowed on the two orphan lambs given to a pair of cute kids in our neighborhood last April — Pat and Pansy. Just found out the two rascals are still getting it out of a bottle, at an age when they should be whittling off buttercups and bluegrass.

Another thing about the 9-month school year that seems important to me is that no one gets anything done at the beginning or the end. I am unequivocally in favor of more intensive education, especially in view of the fact we still would be scratching only the surface of the educable children's mental capacity.

Do other people have this trouble with seeds? Friends and relatives give me seeds in little bottles and sacks but when it's time to plant them I cannot remember what they are. Just in time, the lady I cultivate with remembered that the seeds in the brown sack were a special variety of watermelon. They almost got themselves planted in one of the flower beds.

DURING ELECTRICAL STORM. Byron Eells, Review photographer ,didn't need a flash bulb on this picture—a jagged streak of lightning that ripped through the skies during the storm Wednesday about midnight. The district had been alerted during the afternoon to possible hail and damaging winds but the area got off with only a few hailstones and a brisk "blow" that caused no damage. The storm near midnight produced 0.36 inch of badly needed rain for the first substantial precipitation in two weeks and took the edge from the spring heat wave. Tonight will be fair and cooler with a low of 52 to 57 and continued mild Friday.

Try Cooking Dinner For 6 Without Stove

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With determination, and a lot of electrical sockets, you can cook dinner for six without a stove.

After Robert and Jean Zeh moved into a new apartment, they invited four friends to dinner. The guests arrived, but the new electric stove didn't.

The hostess plunked a chicken into an electric skillet and plugged it into the outlet in the bedroom. Over in the den, her husband baked potatoes in a dutch oven.

The broccoli went into the coffee pot and was cooked in the hall. Soft rolls were heated in utensils connected to other plugs.

When everything was ready, the food was served by candlelight. The heavy load had blown a fuse.

30 Ohio Cows May Be Luckiest In Nation

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Thirty cows on a farm near here are probably the luckiest in the nation. They're living in air conditioned luxury — all to test whether their milk and butterfat production can be kept high through the hot summer months.

For comparison purposes, the rest of the farm's cows — probably jealously — are living and being milked under normal conditions in another part of the bar.

Ten years of research at Ohio State University found that a dairy cow produces the most milk at temperatures from 30 to 75 degrees. When the mercury climbs above that "bossy" begins to produce less and less.

Popcorn, Popcorn, Not Kernel To Eat

Firemen arrived to fight a grass fire at a farm near here recently and found it had spread to a 10-acre field on which popcorn was grown last year.

Commented one of the firemen: "The popped corn looked like snow and sounded a bit like a Fourth of July celebration."

U.S. Demands Laos Pro-West Head Quit

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Royal government officials reported today that the United States has demanded Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman of the pro-Western Vientiane regime, resign his Cabinet posts.

Phoumi, vice premier of Prince Boun Oum's government, controls the royal armed forces as defense and interior minister. The Kennedy administration blames him for blocking negotiations to set up a coalition government in Laos under neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Horses In Movies Fall On Mattresses

BOSTON (AP) — Ever wonder why horses don't kill themselves in the falls they take in western movies

He says the horses are just trained to fall at a walk and gradually learn to pick up speed and fall on concealed mattresses.

It's usually the rider that winds up in the cactus, McGovern says.

with reports that the names of Edgar Eisenhower and the late Arthur Eisenhower might figure in the hearings on matters completely unrelated to Estes.

In Tacoma, Wash., Edgar Eisenhower, a lawyer, declared "the whole purpose of this is to take the heat off this administration, to take the heat off this Billie Sol Estes investigation. They are trying to shift attention.

"I don't know anything about the Estes problem except what I have read in the papers. If they are trying to connect me with that situation, it is a great distortion. I never heard of the man until I saw his name in the paper."

The former president's brother said Fountain invited him to come to Washington a long time ago.

"I told him on the telephone I wouldn't go," Eisenhower said. "Didn't have any interest in any grain storage and didn't see why I should pay my way back there to tell him so. I told him I didn't have at any time, and haven't now, a nickel's worth of interest in wheat storage or grain storage."

The House group, the subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, has jurisdiction over surplus grain storage and cotton allotments. It will look into Estes' profitable operations under both programs.

The House subcommittee's counsel James R. Naughton said no decision has been reached on whether it will investigate the Eisenhowers.

Estes is awaiting trial on federal fraud charges and a Texas indictment accusing him of theft.

Another chapter of his from boom to bust story unfolded Wednesday in El Paso, Tex. The financier faced his creditors but would reveal nothing.

Pleading the Fifth Amendment's provisions against possible self-incrimination, Estes declined to answer when asked about his business interests and assets. He also declined to give his occupation or the location of his offices.

But he told District Judge R. E. Thomason at the federal receivership hearing he would file a detailed statement of his worth and operations by June 15.

Men Will Be Boys With Toys Involved

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — The man in the dome will control what 12 men believe will be the largest portable model railroad in the world.

It will be 30 by 60 feet when completed and is made in sections.

Involved in the project, which is 75 per cent completed, are a truck driver, an obstetrician, an architect, a machinist, a couple of taxi cab drivers, a printer and a gas station attendant.

Truck driver Charles N. Maynard, who works nights, supervises the job days.

The group plans to send the railroad on a tour of states across the country when it is completed in August or September. Work was started last September.

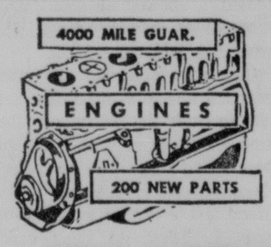

The structure will contain 1,750 feet of track; a river (activated by a washing machine); 35 bridges; 400 trees, brush, grass, stone and gravel; 75 buildings, including model school houses; 150 boy people; and a wide variety of freight and passenger trains.

Popcorn, Popcorn, Not Kernel To Eat

Firemen arrived to fight a grass fire at a farm near here recently and found it had spread to a 10-acre field on which popcorn was grown last year.

Commented one of the firemen: "The popped corn looked like snow and sounded a bit like a Fourth of July celebration."

U.S. Demands Laos Pro-West Head Quit

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Royal government officials reported today that the United States has demanded Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman of the pro-Western Vientiane regime, resign his Cabinet posts.

Phoumi, vice premier of Prince Boun Oum's government, controls the royal armed forces as defense and interior minister. The Kennedy administration blames him for blocking negotiations to set up a coalition government in Laos under neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Horses In Movies Fall On Mattresses

He says the horses are just trained to fall at a walk and gradually learn to pick up speed and fall on concealed mattresses.

It's usually the rider that winds up in the cactus, McGovern says.

with reports that the names of Edgar Eisenhower and the late Arthur Eisenhower might figure in the hearings on matters completely unrelated to Estes.

In Tacoma, Wash., Edgar Eisenhower, a lawyer, declared "the whole purpose of this is to take the heat off this administration, to take the heat off this Billie Sol Estes investigation. They are trying to shift attention.

"I don't know anything about the Estes problem except what I have read in the papers. If they are trying to connect me with that situation, it is a great distortion. I never heard of the man until I saw his name in the paper."

The former president's brother said Fountain invited him to come to Washington a long time ago.

"I told him on the telephone I wouldn't go," Eisenhower said. "Didn't have any interest in any grain storage and didn't see why I should pay my way back there to tell him so. I told him I didn't have at any time, and haven't now, a nickel's worth of interest in wheat storage or grain storage."

The House group, the subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, has jurisdiction over surplus grain storage and cotton allotments. It will look into Estes' profitable operations under both programs.

The House subcommittee's counsel James R. Naughton said no decision has been reached on whether it will investigate the Eisenhowers.

Estes is awaiting trial on federal fraud charges and a Texas indictment accusing him of theft.

Another chapter of his from boom to bust story unfolded Wednesday in El Paso, Tex. The financier faced his creditors but would reveal nothing.

Pleading the Fifth Amendment's provisions against possible self-incrimination, Estes declined to answer when asked about his business interests and assets. He also declined to give his occupation or the location of his offices.

But he told District Judge R. E. Thomason at the federal receivership hearing he would file a detailed statement of his worth and operations by June 15.

Men Will Be Boys With Toys Involved

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — The man in the dome will control what 12 men believe will be the largest portable model railroad in the world.

It will be 30 by 60 feet when completed and is made in sections.

Involved in the project, which is 75 per cent completed, are a truck driver, an obstetrician, an architect, a machinist, a couple of taxi cab drivers, a printer and a gas station attendant.

Truck driver Charles N. Maynard, who works nights, supervises the job days.

The group plans to send the railroad on a tour of states across the country when it is completed in August or September. Work was started last September.

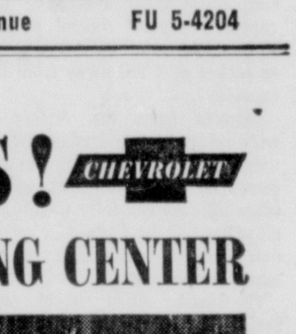

The structure will contain 1,750 feet of track; a river (activated by a washing machine); 35 bridges; 400 trees, brush, grass, stone and gravel; 75 buildings, including model school houses; 150 boy people; and a wide variety of freight and passenger trains.

Carpenter

trol the Friendship 7 manually most of the last two orbits.

Carpenter released the folded balloon from a container tucked in the top of the capsule. The plastic and aluminum sphere was inflated to the size of a 30-inch beach ball after being ejected at the end of a 100-foot line.

Carpenter reported he could see the balloon very well and his intent was to photograph it.

The surface of the balloon was divided into five different segments, each with a different color —orange, white, silver, yellow, and a blue-green phosphorescence which glows at night.

The test will determine which colors man can best sight in space and may aid in selecting colors for vehicles which spacemen may have to approach and rendezvous with for future flights to the moon.

As the balloon inflated, it unloosed a shower of small aluminum-coated plastic discs which were packed in the folds.

Carpenter observed and photographed these confetti-like particles to study the behavior of these known objects in space. The purpose was to see if they created a "firefly" effect reported by both Glenn and Soviet cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov on their orbital flights.

As he approached the west coast of the United States, Carpenter reported seeing some white objects streaking past his capsule. From his description they apparently were not the same objects reported by Glenn and Titov.

From the moment of blastoff here, the astronaut reported he was feeling fine.

As Carpenter was propelled upward by the powerful force of his Atlas booster, he reported by radio, "My condition is good." Minutes later, Carpenter's Aurora 7 space capsule settled into the planned orbital path more than 100 miles above the earth—following the same trail blazed three months ago by John H. Glenn Jr., America's first orbiting space pioneer.

Seconds after entering orbit, Carpenter began exercising the capsule's manual control system so he could watch the Atlas booster rocket as it fell away from his capsule.

Reports from the Aurora 7 were relayed to hundreds of newsmen here by the Mercury control center on Cape Canaveral, where tense officials carefully monitored all phases of the flight and condition of the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander.

The blazing Atlas rocket rose majestically into a clear sky at 8:45 a.m. (EDT) after a 45-minute delay because of visibility-limiting ground haze in the launching area.

Just as it did on Glenn's flight, the Atlas performed with amazing precision. With pinpoint accuracy it pushed the spacecraft through "a keyhole in the sky" at the desired speed and angle. If it had missed this spot in space 100 miles high and 500 miles northeast of the Cape, the Bermuda tracking station would have ordered Carpenter's craft back to earth immediately.

The control center reported five minutes after blastoff that Aurora 7 was in successful orbit and could remain aloft for seven circuits of the globe if necessary.

But the mission was planned for only three orbits, the same as Glenn's. Seven orbits would entail returning the astronaut's capsule to earth somewhere in the Pacific and would involve the deployment of great numbers of recovery vessels.

If the three-orbit mission was completed, flight time would be about four hours and 50 minutes. If all went well, the capsule would parachute into the Atlantic near Grand Turk island, 800 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral about 1:35 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

Despite the extreme stresses of rocket acceleration, Carpenter calmly reported on conditions in the capsule. He said forces pressed him against his contour couch—in effect increasing the weight of his lean, trim body eight times its normal 155 pounds.

Shortly after insertion into orbit, Carpenter reported on cabin pressure, oxygen supply and other instrument readings in his capsule. He said all were in go condition and that he himself was in excellent shape.

Communicating with him from the control center was a veteran space traveler, astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, who last year made a suborbital rocket trip.

After Aurora 7 was successfully in orbit, the astronaut reported the capsule had turned around 180 degrees as intended, so that he was riding upright and backward through space, with the capsule's blunt heat shield leading the way.

At this point he was in the buoyant world of weightlessness, the condition that results when a delicate balance is achieved between the outward pull of centrifugal force and the downward pull of the earth's gravity.

Mercury control center reported that the capsule was in an orbit ranging from 99 to 164 miles above the earth at a speed of 17,532 miles an hour.

At 9 a.m., Carpenter's Aurora 7 passed over the Canary Islands tracking station and he reported that he was exercising the manual controls. The steering system and the automatic controls were working properly and everything seemed normal in the capsule, he reported.

Glenn proved conclusively that man can operate in the strange world of weightlessness for at least a short period. Carpenter's job was to add to this knowledge by performing a number of tasks during the flight, during which he would be in a weightless state up to the time of re-entry through the earth's atmosphere.

Among the tasks scheduled during the flight were the release of a multicolored balloon and plastic confetti to test color and depth perception in space.

Insertion into orbit does not make the mission a success. More serious capsule trouble could develop than the problem Glenn had with his automatic control system.

And ahead lay the critical re-entry through the earth's atmosphere at the completion of flight.

Three reverse rockets at the base of the capsule were to be fired as Aurora 7 approached the west coast of the United States near the end of the third orbit.

This would slow the capsule so it would come out of orbit and make a gradual descent through searing re-entry heat up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Then Carpenter was to place his salvation in a successful deployment of two parachutes, landing in the planned recovery area and pickup by one of the recovery ships.

The Kano, Nigeria, tracking station made contact with Carpenter at 9:08 a.m. and reported everything was in fine shape.

Immediately after his capsule separated from the Atlas, Carpenter took over the manual controls to maneuver his spacecraft to get a look at the rocket as it fell away.

"I've got the booster in the center of the window," he reported by radio.

As the capsule swept high over the Indian Ocean halfway through the first orbit, and about 45 minutes after launching, Carpenter passed suddenly from daylight into darkness—the first of three day-night switches he was to encounter today. On each pass he also swept from spring in the United States to autumn over Australia.

Carpenter reported the automatic control system in his capsule was performing well and that all systems were great.

Ground haze obscured Cape Canaveral before the launch but it did not interfere greatly with the big adventure.

The orbital figures were very close to those achieved by Glenn last Feb. 20. His capsule swung in orbit ranging from 100 to 162 miles at a speed of 17,500 miles an hour.

In a conversation with the Canary Island station Carpenter said some of his instrument readings did not agree with what he saw with navigation lines etched on his window. However, experts at the Canary station told him that the ground telemetry showed he was in the proper orbit attitude.

Aurora 7 passed over the Muchea, Australia, tracking post at 9:36 a.m. (EDT) and Carpenter reported he was "getting behind on his plan for work."

He also reported the temperature in his air-conditioned space suit was slightly above normal and he was attempting to correct it by increasing the flow of cool air into the suit from the environmental control system.

Carpenter conversed with fellow astronaut Donald K. Slayton, the pilot originally named for this flight, only to be dropped last March 15 when it was disclosed he had a minor heart flutter.

Slayton advised Carpenter to limit his exercise until the suit temperature could be corrected.

By the time he reached Woomera, Australia, Carpenter's space suit temperature had returned to near normal, Mercury control reported.

Carpenter reported to Woomera that his oxygen supply was holding normal.

As he went out of radio range of Woomera, Carpenter said he was going to turn off all controls in the capsule and allow it to drift for about 10 minutes. The purpose was to see just how far the capsule might wander off its path and also to determine what this drift might do to radio communications.

With Carpenter most of the morning after he awakened at 2:15 a.m. was Glenn, the man who preceded him into orbit.

After a shave and shower, Carpenter had breakfast at 2:45. The hearty meal included filet mignon, a soft egg, buttered toast, jelly, coffee and orange juice. Among his breakfast companions were Glenn, and two Project Mercury specialists, Dr. Howard Minners and Dr. William Douglas.

Medical checks began at 3 a.m. Minners described Carpenter as in excellent physical condition.

Shortly after 4 a.m., the astronaut donned his silver space suit, and at 4:42 left Hangar S in a special van for a four-mile ride to Launch Complex 14 where the great Atlas rocket was set.

At 5:38, he took the elevator to the top of the gantry and at 5:41 he entered the cramped capsule.

The aim of Carpenter's flight was to broaden man's knowledge of space travel; the eventual goal: manned flight to the moon and beyond.

Carpenter's Mother Happy About Launch

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Florence Carpenter, mother of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, said today she was very happy with the successful launching of the space capsule.

"The liftoff was terrific. Two of the announcements I had been waiting for pleased me. One, the clock was started, and two, the flight was good for seven orbits," she said.

Mrs. Carpenter works in the records department of Boulder Community Hospital. She lives in a trailer home nearby.

She awoke at 4 a.m., had breakfast and settled calmly with a group of friends before a television set to watch the launching.

A small crowd gathered outside the trailer and several hundred persons assembled at the University of Colorado auditorium where she will hold a formal news conference after the landing of Carpenter's capsule.

Carpenter is a native of Boulder and an alumnus of the university.

President Watches Carpenter In Liftoff

James E. McKeever III of Shippingport subsequently post a $112 bond for a hearing Monday before Mayor Ray Collins on the charge.

Chief Davis said he first noticed McKeever on Carolina Ave. about 10:45, and by hte time he got the police cruiser turned around, McKeever had headed up the Route 30 hill.

Davis said when he finally headed off the motorist, he was traveling 75. Davis had the auto towed back to the city.

Hard To Cash Check, Even With Credentials

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It's difficult to get a check cashed even with the best of credentials.

An out-of-town visitor tried it at the Citiziens Fidelity Bank but was turned down.

In desperation, he took out his false teeth — his name was engraved on them — and offered the choppers as security.

Another refusal. The bank explained the plates were not negotiable.

Ground haze obscured Cape Canaveral before the launch but it did not interfere greatly with the big adventure.

The orbital figures were very close to those achieved by Glenn last Feb. 20. His capsule swung in orbit ranging from 100 to 162 miles at a speed of 17,500 miles an hour.

In a conversation with the Canary Island station Carpenter said some of his instrument readings did not agree with what he saw with navigation lines etched on his window. However, experts at the Canary station told him that the ground telemetry showed he was in the proper orbit attitude.

Aurora 7 passed over the Muchea, Australia, tracking post at 9:36 a.m. (EDT) and Carpenter reported he was "getting behind on his plan for work."

He also reported the temperature in his air-conditioned space suit was slightly above normal and he was attempting to correct it by increasing the flow of cool air into the suit from the environmental control system.

Carpenter conversed with fellow astronaut Donald K. Slayton, the pilot originally named for this flight, only to be dropped last March 15 when it was disclosed he had a minor heart flutter.

Slayton advised Carpenter to limit his exercise until the suit temperature could be corrected.

By the time he reached Woomera, Australia, Carpenter's space suit temperature had returned to near normal, Mercury control reported.

Carpenter reported to Woomera that his oxygen supply was holding normal.

As he went out of radio range of Woomera, Carpenter said he was going to turn off all controls in the capsule and allow it to drift for about 10 minutes. The purpose was to see just how far the capsule might wander off its path and also to determine what this drift might do to radio communications.

With Carpenter most of the morning after he awakened at 2:15 a.m. was Glenn, the man who preceded him into orbit.

After a shave and shower, Carpenter had breakfast at 2:45. The hearty meal included filet mignon, a soft egg, buttered toast, jelly, coffee and orange juice. Among his breakfast companions were Glenn, and two Project Mercury specialists, Dr. Howard Minners and Dr. William Douglas.

Medical checks began at 3 a.m. Minners described Carpenter as in excellent physical condition.

Shortly after 4 a.m., the astronaut donned his silver space suit, and at 4:42 left Hangar S in a special van for a four-mile ride to Launch Complex 14 where the great Atlas rocket was set.

At 5:38, he took the elevator to the top of the gantry and at 5:41 he entered the cramped capsule.

The aim of Carpenter's flight was to broaden man's knowledge of space travel; the eventual goal: manned flight to the moon and beyond.

Carpenter's Mother Happy About Launch

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Florence Carpenter, mother of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, said today she was very happy with the successful launching of the space capsule.

"The liftoff was terrific. Two of the announcements I had been waiting for pleased me. One, the clock was started, and two, the flight was good for seven orbits," she said.

Mrs. Carpenter works in the records department of Boulder Community Hospital. She lives in a trailer home nearby.

She awoke at 4 a.m., had breakfast and settled calmly with a group of friends before a television set to watch the launching.

A small crowd gathered outside the trailer and several hundred persons assembled at the University of Colorado auditorium where she will hold a formal news conference after the landing of Carpenter's capsule.

Carpenter is a native of Boulder and an alumnus of the university.

President Watches Carpenter In Liftoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy looked on by television today as astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter became America's second man in orbit.

Kennedy saw Carpenter's liftoff on a television set in the bedroom of his living quarters in the executive mansion before walking over to his office.

Extends Good Wishes

Hard To Cash Check, Even With Credentials

An out-of-town visitor tried it at the Citiziens Fidelity Bank but was turned down.

In desperation, he took out his false teeth — his name was engraved on them — and offered the choppers as security.

Another refusal. The bank explained the plates were not negotiable.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Muffin Tins Can Come In Handy

Dear Heloise: When you go on a picnic or barbecue things at home—use the cups of your muffin tin to hold pickles, sliced onions, relish, salt, peanuts, mustard, sliced tomatoes, etc.

By using the muffin tin, you can carry eight different items to the table at one time. Only one pan to wash, too!

Also, for that same barbecue, I cook my hamburgers beforehand and wrap them individually in foil. When it comes time to eat them, put the whole package in the hot coals and they will be steaming in a jiffy.

By this time you will have hot juicy hamburgers ready to eat. They are never burned and dry. If you prefer to make one hamburger at a time and keep the next one hot till you are ready for it . . . that little piece of foil keeps it just right. Louise McDonald.

Dear Heloise: For those annoying little grease spots on ties or clothing — I cover the spot with baking soda, gently rub and allow to stand overnight. Next morning, just shake the soda out of the garment and spots will have disappeared.

For very stubborn cases, repeat the process. This method is also very good for grease stains on rugs.

Dear Heloise: When picking pecans for storage . . . after they are shelled in my food colander I shake them for a minute or so, tossing them around well.

You would be amazed at the amount of bitter dust and tiny particles that will fall out! Then they are all clean. This also gives you a chance to see any hulls that may have been overlooked. Mrs. J.B.K.

Dear Heloise: The woman who said she had been putting her clothes in the deep freeze for ten years . . . appeals to me.

-:-

I favor the idea of delaying ironing as long as possible and 10 years sounds just about the right time lapse to me! Mrs. H. R. Adams.

-:-

Dear Ladies: The "Italian of Old" writes again with a few explanations for mothers who cook spaghetti.

He says that after spaghetti is cooked to the proper consistency . . . always blanch in cold water! This stops the cooking and keeps it from being soggy and sticky, and also washes the starch off the spaghetti itself.

He says that to reheat the spaghetti, just place some in a large tea strainer or colander and hold it under the hot water faucet for a few minutes (providing your hot water heater is at least 140 degrees) then tap the strainer on the edge of your drain . . . to remove all excess water (or place back in boiling water until hot, then strain).

The tapping will "dry" the spaghetti so the sauce will stick and not become watery.

The man from the old country also told us that rice may be done the same way! Place in big strainer after cooking . . . then tap the strainer on the side of the sink. Watch the excess water leave! This makes dry rice for your good gravy. So much better. I tried it. He's right. Heloise.

Dear Heloise: We recently did some redecorating in our home. We found that those partially-filled cans of leftover paint can be mixed together to produce some very interesting colors.

By mixing them together, you will have enough to paint the basement stool, an old lawn chair, etc. Of course, we always strain the paint through my discarded nylons.

Your column is my morning lifter-upper. Gives me comfort to know that I am not alone in this housewife business, trying to accomplish it with efficiency and economy and to have a little time and money left over for "good deeds," an extravagance or two and even a bit of fun and frolic now and then.

Many thanks to you and all the others who write. I have picked up many ideas and inspirations, too. Mrs. McKay.

Welcome to the fold. It's good to have people like you join our little club. We all love you, too. Heloise.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

Time, Gentlemen, Please

Next month the United States will toss a basketball into the sky and the teams may not even be on the court yet.

Alan Gill

The ball is Telestar, the TV satellite; the teams are (potentially) all the nations of the world; and I have the feeling the game will start without benefit of rules or referee. Or even a whistle. Across the ocean, the Eurovision people are shouting into each other's faces about who does what and when.

At home, some intelligent people from communications and government are running a few ideas up the flagpole.

SOMEWHERE in the Urals, I suppose, a Russian team is limbering up. And before we know it, the darned thing will be up there, with television signals bouncing off it, and we'll all be watching the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

Nation to nation, it's hard enough agreeing on the ground rules of tuna fishing, much less those of international programming. You can imagine how the people of Chicago would make out if they all had the same telephone number. Well, Telestar is a party line, too.

So — to get into the "what ifs" without further ado — what if we all sat back, put Telestar back into its box for the moment, and thrashed things out? We want an orderly meeting here, we want good international exchange, and we want good television. How do we get it?

IDEALLY, every set owner would have an international channel on his dial, five licks removed from the nearest network; and each people's contributions to televised global culture would be underwritten by their governments. The governments, however, would be allowed no voice in the selection of subject matter or talent.

(A congressman, for example, would not be permitted to squawk because our telecasters had shown Brooklyn to the Iranians. No investigations, please.)

Who, then, would be the decisive voices in international TV? I propose a system we'll call the Rotating Pyramids. The man at the top of each pyramid would be a kind of minister of culture, subject to recall by the country's writers and aritsts.

UNDER HIM would be a board of three or four which would be constantly rotated, just for the heck of it. The board members would choose the programs. The minister would round up the available technicians to produce the shows.

(He needn't rush about it, either. There would be nothing so blissful as some occasional international dead air.)

We don't exactly have an Andre Malraux on hand for the top job, as France does, but we've got — oh, Lewis Mumford, as a starter.

Mr. Mumford would pick his little band of eggheads — Robert Frost, Dorothy Parker, Reinhold Niebuhr and Abe Burrows, say — and tell them to do just what they darn well pleased.

As soon as one of them faltered, Mr. Mumford would have a number of bench warmers to draw from. Leonard Bernstein, Theodore H. White, Billy Wilder, Elaine May, Thomas Merton, Henry Morgan, Walter Lippmann, Jean Kerr — well, you can make up your own list.

SUPPOSE, NOW, that our board of judges decided to run a Casey Stengel interview as one of the first American contributions to international understanding. We'd need, I'm afraid, an ultra-high-frequency radio station that would tie in, across the world, with the international TV channel.

Thus, the French could hear Stengel speaking French, the Greeks would hear him in Greek, and Americans would cock their ears to pure Stengelese.

But enough of that. Do you know what we're likely to receive from Telestar? At least in the beginning? A little political science, a little pageant, a little sports, a little music, and — I hope I'm wrong — a lot of public relations.

Sub Fires 2 Missiles From Below Surface

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The nuclear submarine Thomas Edison fired two Polaris missiles from below the Atlantic surface Wednesday. Both traveled more than 1,500 miles and both shots were declared successful.

The firings, about two hours apart, were the first for the Edison.

3rd Gives Up In Murder Of 2 Detectives

NEW YORK (AP)—Police have their hands on all three ex-convicts accused of the holdup-murders of two city detectives in Brooklyn.

The one who hid out the longest — Jerome Rosenberg — surrendered Wednesday night to the New York Daily News in its Manhattan headquarters.

Notified by the News, Assistant Chief Inspector Raymond V. Martin picked up Rosenberg in the editorial department and had him taken under heavy guard to a Brooklyn police station.

Police booked Rosenberg on a homicide charge shortly before dawn, after he had been questioned through the night and early morning and viewed by witnesses of last Friday's holdup. Detectives said he said he is innocent.

Rosenberg's surrender — described in a copyright story in the News—came five days and a few hours after the murders, and on Rosenberg's 25th birthday.

Police revealed last Monday that they knew the identities of the three bandits and that a nationwide search was under way.

Later that day, the alleged triggerman accused of staging the $4,000 holdup of a tobacco company with Rosenberg, was caught in a motel in a Chicago suburb. The next day, the man accused of driving a car which was to have been used in a getaway surrendered in Norwich, Conn.

The Daily News said Rosenberg, "desperate on the fifth day after the murders," contacted his father, Louis, 56.

When the father turned to the News for advice, he was told: "Have him turn himself in. It's the only way."

The News informed police that the contact had been made, and that Rosenberg wanted to talk with representatives of the paper and state his case before facing police.

Such a discussion was authorized by police, the News said, and it quoted father and son as claiming young Rosenberg was innocent.

The other two men accused of the slayings have claimed innocence.

The pair, arraigned on homicide charges and held without bail Wednesday are Anthony (Baldy) Portelli, 26, accused of firing the shots that killed the two detectives, and Anthony Dellernia, 34, identified by police as the driver of the getaway car who panicked and left the robbers in the lurch when he heard gunfire in the tobacco company plant.

Slain detective John P. Finnegan, 29, was buried Wednesday after a funeral mass at a Roman Catholic Church in Brooklyn. There was a turnout of about 1,500 off-duty detectives, along with a 90-man police honor guard and 125 uniformed men—a tribute similar to that given the day before to Finnegan's partner, Luke J. Fallon, 56.

Court Dismisses 3-Year-Old Case Involving Check

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff Wednesday allowed dismissal of a charge alleging that W. L. Morrow Jr. of Empire issued a fraudulent $41 check in East Liverpool more than three years ago.

The action was taken after the defendant's parents made restitution for the alleged fraud and told the court they were concerned over the mental condition of their son. The judge dismissed the charge on condition that Morrow will undergo psychiatric examination, with a report to be submitted to the court.

The charge against Morrow, signed by Charles E. Allison of the First National Bank, alleged that the fraudulent check was issued April 2, 1959, on an account at the Potters Bank & Trust Co. The court learned that the man whose name Morrow allegedly forged subsequently has died.

The affidavit alleged the check was issued to the Reserve Life Insurance Co. The warrant was served on Morrow at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday by Lt. W. E. McDaniel and Patrolman Paul Carter, police said.

Car Hits Pole, Motorist Hurt

A 24-year-old Beaver County man — a former East Liverpool resident — is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with injuries suffered Wednesday at 7 p.m. when his auto went off the River Rd. and struck a utility pole 300 feet west of State St., police reported.

Chester C. Ice of West Bridgewater, formerly of Railroad St., suffered multiple lacerations of the upper left arm, left side and scalp and abrasions of the knee and back.

Ice told police an unidentified vehicle pulled in front of his auto on a curve, causing him to lose control, veer off the road and strike the pole. There was extensive damage to the front end of the 1950 sedan, owned by Laverne Ice, 914 Railroad St., police said.

Ice told police he was driving east about 35 miles an hour when the other vehicle pulled into his path. Patrolman Paul Blevins investigated.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

Time, Gentlemen, Please

Next month the United States will toss a basketball into the sky and the teams may not even be on the court yet.

Alan Gill

The ball is Telestar, the TV satellite; the teams are (potentially) all the nations of the world; and I have the feeling the game will start without benefit of rules or referee. Or even a whistle. Across the ocean, the Eurovision people are shouting into each other's faces about who does what and when.

At home, some intelligent people from communications and government are running a few ideas up the flagpole.

SOMEWHERE in the Urals, I suppose, a Russian team is limbering up. And before we know it, the darned thing will be up there, with television signals bouncing off it, and we'll all be watching the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

Nation to nation, it's hard enough agreeing on the ground rules of tuna fishing, much less those of international programming. You can imagine how the people of Chicago would make out if they all had the same telephone number. Well, Telestar is a party line, too.

So — to get into the "what ifs" without further ado — what if we all sat back, put Telestar back into its box for the moment, and thrashed things out? We want an orderly meeting here, we want good international exchange, and we want good television. How do we get it?

IDEALLY, every set owner would have an international channel on his dial, five licks removed from the nearest network; and each people's contributions to televised global culture would be underwritten by their governments. The governments, however, would be allowed no voice in the selection of subject matter or talent.

(A congressman, for example, would not be permitted to squawk because our telecasters had shown Brooklyn to the Iranians. No investigations, please.)

Who, then, would be the decisive voices in international TV? I propose a system we'll call the Rotating Pyramids. The man at the top of each pyramid would be a kind of minister of culture, subject to recall by the country's writers and aritsts.

UNDER HIM would be a board of three or four which would be constantly rotated, just for the heck of it. The board members would choose the programs. The minister would round up the available technicians to produce the shows.

(He needn't rush about it, either. There would be nothing so blissful as some occasional international dead air.)

We don't exactly have an Andre Malraux on hand for the top job, as France does, but we've got — oh, Lewis Mumford, as a starter.

Mr. Mumford would pick his little band of eggheads — Robert Frost, Dorothy Parker, Reinhold Niebuhr and Abe Burrows, say — and tell them to do just what they darn well pleased.

As soon as one of them faltered, Mr. Mumford would have a number of bench warmers to draw from. Leonard Bernstein, Theodore H. White, Billy Wilder, Elaine May, Thomas Merton, Henry Morgan, Walter Lippmann, Jean Kerr — well, you can make up your own list.

SUPPOSE, NOW, that our board of judges decided to run a Casey Stengel interview as one of the first American contributions to international understanding. We'd need, I'm afraid, an ultra-high-frequency radio station that would tie in, across the world, with the international TV channel.

Thus, the French could hear Stengel speaking French, the Greeks would hear him in Greek, and Americans would cock their ears to pure Stengelese.

But enough of that. Do you know what we're likely to receive from Telestar? At least in the beginning? A little political science, a little pageant, a little sports, a little music, and — I hope I'm wrong — a lot of public relations.

Crippled, Deprived Children Chief Heirs

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Crippled and deprived children were the principal heirs of a noted Chillicothe author who died here 10 days ago.

The will of Burton E. Stevenson, who founded the American Library of Paris and later served 59 years as city librarian, was filed Wednesday in Probate Court.

Stevenson, 89, left the bulk of his estate, valued at nearly $1 million, for creation of a Burton E. Stevenson Endowment for Underprivileged Children. The trust will be administered by a committee made up of local medical and charitable organizations.

Sub Fires 2 Missiles From Below Surface

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The nuclear submarine Thomas Edison fired two Polaris missiles from below the Atlantic surface Wednesday. Both traveled more than 1,500 miles and both shots were declared successful.

The firings, about two hours apart, were the first for the Edison.

3rd Gives Up In Murder Of 2 Detectives

NEW YORK (AP)—Police have their hands on all three ex-convicts accused of the holdup-murders of two city detectives in Brooklyn.

The one who hid out the longest — Jerome Rosenberg — surrendered Wednesday night to the New York Daily News in its Manhattan headquarters.

Notified by the News, Assistant Chief Inspector Raymond V. Martin picked up Rosenberg in the editorial department and had him taken under heavy guard to a Brooklyn police station.

Police booked Rosenberg on a homicide charge shortly before dawn, after he had been questioned through the night and early morning and viewed by witnesses of last Friday's holdup. Detectives said he said he is innocent.

Rosenberg's surrender — described in a copyright story in the News—came five days and a few hours after the murders, and on Rosenberg's 25th birthday.

Police revealed last Monday that they knew the identities of the three bandits and that a nationwide search was under way.

Later that day, the alleged triggerman accused of staging the $4,000 holdup of a tobacco company with Rosenberg, was caught in a motel in a Chicago suburb. The next day, the man accused of driving a car which was to have been used in a getaway surrendered in Norwich, Conn.

The Daily News said Rosenberg, "desperate on the fifth day after the murders," contacted his father, Louis, 56.

When the father turned to the News for advice, he was told: "Have him turn himself in. It's the only way."

The News informed police that the contact had been made, and that Rosenberg wanted to talk with representatives of the paper and state his case before facing police.

Such a discussion was authorized by police, the News said, and it quoted father and son as claiming young Rosenberg was innocent.

The other two men accused of the slayings have claimed innocence.

The pair, arraigned on homicide charges and held without bail Wednesday are Anthony (Baldy) Portelli, 26, accused of firing the shots that killed the two detectives, and Anthony Dellernia, 34, identified by police as the driver of the getaway car who panicked and left the robbers in the lurch when he heard gunfire in the tobacco company plant.

Slain detective John P. Finnegan, 29, was buried Wednesday after a funeral mass at a Roman Catholic Church in Brooklyn. There was a turnout of about 1,500 off-duty detectives, along with a 90-man police honor guard and 125 uniformed men—a tribute similar to that given the day before to Finnegan's partner, Luke J. Fallon, 56.

Court Dismisses 3-Year-Old Case Involving Check

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff Wednesday allowed dismissal of a charge alleging that W. L. Morrow Jr. of Empire issued a fraudulent $41 check in East Liverpool more than three years ago.

The action was taken after the defendant's parents made restitution for the alleged fraud and told the court they were concerned over the mental condition of their son. The judge dismissed the charge on condition that Morrow will undergo psychiatric examination, with a report to be submitted to the court.

The charge against Morrow, signed by Charles E. Allison of the First National Bank, alleged that the fraudulent check was issued April 2, 1959, on an account at the Potters Bank & Trust Co. The court learned that the man whose name Morrow allegedly forged subsequently has died.

The affidavit alleged the check was issued to the Reserve Life Insurance Co. The warrant was served on Morrow at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday by Lt. W. E. McDaniel and Patrolman Paul Carter, police said.

Car Hits Pole, Motorist Hurt

A 24-year-old Beaver County man — a former East Liverpool resident — is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with injuries suffered Wednesday at 7 p.m. when his auto went off the River Rd. and struck a utility pole 300 feet west of State St., police reported.

Chester C. Ice of West Bridgewater, formerly of Railroad St., suffered multiple lacerations of the upper left arm, left side and scalp and abrasions of the knee and back.

Ice told police an unidentified vehicle pulled in front of his auto on a curve, causing him to lose control, veer off the road and strike the pole. There was extensive damage to the front end of the 1950 sedan, owned by Laverne Ice, 914 Railroad St., police said.

Ice told police he was driving east about 35 miles an hour when the other vehicle pulled into his path. Patrolman Paul Blevins investigated.

Political Plan Draws Fire At AFL-CIO Parley

CLEVELAND (AP)—A proposal to increase the political effectiveness of the Ohio AFL-CIO met stiff resistance at the group's convention Wednesday. A vote on the issue was postponed when a recess was called after a bitter word battle erupted.

The dispute was on whether a roll call should be taken on the controversial "Blueprint for Victory" proposal. The roll call motion was approved after 2,000 delegates heard more than 20 speakers defend the proposal.

The plan includes appointing eight salaried district directors in charge of political education, financed by increasing the present five-cent monthly per capita dues to eight cents. The locals would pay the increase from present dues.

Phil Hannah, president of the labor body, recessed the convention until today before the roll call could be taken.

John S. Jones, United Steel Workers director of District 27 in Canton and one of six Ohio AFL-CIO vice presidents against the program, said political education "should be done by elective officials, not appointed.

"The three-cent increase would bring in $216,000, not any more than a salary and expenses for the officers."

He said $128,000 would go for salaries and expenses of eight directors, and $72,000 for a centralized filing system.

"That would leave nothing to promote any candidates we might want to endorse," Jones said. "Let's do it with the staff we have."

Dairyman Returned

COLUMBIANA — C. A. Houlette has been re-elected vice president of the Board of Directors of the Dairymen's Co-Operative Sales Association. S. B. Wells of New England, W. Va., was named president and chairman of the board of the Tri-State area marketing co-op.

Most Of $16,000 Loot Recovered

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—Most of the $16,000 loot from a May 16 bank robbery in Brunswick was found Wednesday night buried in a quart jar and a pickle jug behind the Hinckley home of one of the robbery suspects.

E. E. Hargett, in charge of the Cleveland FBI office, said agents found the money in a wooded area behind the house of John L. McCune, 34.

Hargett said the money was part of the loot of the $16,000 robbery of a Cuyahoga Savings Association branch.

McCune and his brother, James F. McCune, 37, of Strongsville, have been charged with that bank robbery. Both have denied they were the two who robbed the branch and locked up 13 persons in a vault. They are to appear at a preliminary hearing June 6.

Chosen As Miss Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP) — Miss Joanne Colucy, representing Canton, won the statewide Ohio preliminaries of the Miss Universe competition Wednesday night.

The 20-year-old black-haired beauty from Massillon wore a turquoise gown as she edged nine finalist for the title. She will compete as Miss Ohio in the Miss Universe finals in Miami July 7.

Second was Miss Akron, Linda Beck of Suffield in Portage County, and third was Miss Brecksville, Mary Russell of Brecksville.

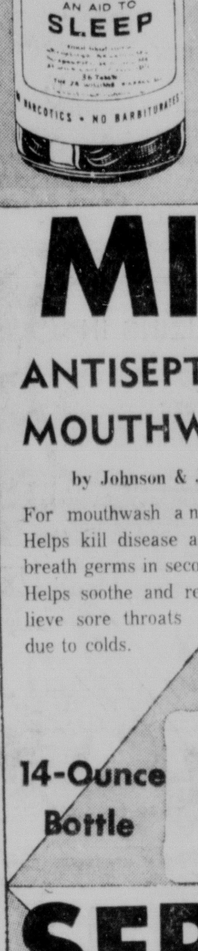

Rogers Picnic Set

ROGERS — The annual Rogers School picnic will be held Tuesday at the school with each child bringing a sack lunch, and the Parent - Teacher Association furnishing potato chips and soft drinks. The Mothers Club will provide ice cream, Mrs. Gladys Hostetter, chairman, said.

Political Plan Draws Fire At AFL-CIO Parley

CLEVELAND (AP)—A proposal to increase the political effectiveness of the Ohio AFL-CIO met stiff resistance at the group's convention Wednesday. A vote on the issue was postponed when a recess was called after a bitter word battle erupted.

The dispute was on whether a roll call should be taken on the controversial "Blueprint for Victory" proposal. The roll call motion was approved after 2,000 delegates heard more than 20 speakers defend the proposal.

The plan includes appointing eight salaried district directors in charge of political education, financed by increasing the present five-cent monthly per capita dues to eight cents. The locals would pay the increase from present dues.

Phil Hannah, president of the labor body, recessed the convention until today before the roll call could be taken.

John S. Jones, United Steel Workers director of District 27 in Canton and one of six Ohio AFL-CIO vice presidents against the program, said political education "should be done by elective officials, not appointed.

"The three-cent increase would bring in $216,000, not any more than a salary and expenses for the officers."

He said $128,000 would go for salaries and expenses of eight directors, and $72,000 for a centralized filing system.

"That would leave nothing to promote any candidates we might want to endorse," Jones said. "Let's do it with the staff we have."

Most Of $16,000 Loot Recovered

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—Most of the $16,000 loot from a May 16 bank robbery in Brunswick was found Wednesday night buried in a quart jar and a pickle jug behind the Hinckley home of one of the robbery suspects.

E. E. Hargett, in charge of the Cleveland FBI office, said agents found the money in a wooded area behind the house of John L. McCune, 34.

Hargett said the money was part of the loot of the $16,000 robbery of a Cuyahoga Savings Association branch.

McCune and his brother, James F. McCune, 37, of Strongsville, have been charged with that bank robbery. Both have denied they were the two who robbed the branch and locked up 13 persons in a vault. They are to appear at a preliminary hearing June 6.

Chosen As Miss Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP) — Miss Joanne Colucy, representing Canton, won the statewide Ohio preliminaries of the Miss Universe competition Wednesday night.

The 20-year-old black-haired beauty from Massillon wore a turquoise gown as she edged nine finalist for the title. She will compete as Miss Ohio in the Miss Universe finals in Miami July 7.

Second was Miss Akron, Linda Beck of Suffield in Portage County, and third was Miss Brecksville, Mary Russell of Brecksville.

Steel Figure Rips Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — A steel company executive today bitterly assailed the Kennedy administration, saying it seeks to set prices and wages and to "undermine the profit system that has made our nation great."

Allison R. Maxwell Jr., president of the Pittsburgh Steel Co., called on industry leaders to vigorously oppose "a tiny handful of government officials whose pursuit of power over business and industry exceeds their understanding of the public interest."

The public interest frequently was cited by President Kennedy in his successful campaign to force withdrawal of a $6 a ton price increase posted by seven major steel producers last April 10 and 11.

In an address prepared for a session of the 70th American Iron and Steel Institute, Maxwell also denounced one aspect of the White House anti-inflation policy as "insidious doctrine."

This is the "guideline" laid down for wage increases that are non-inflationary, approving those within the limits of gains in productivity of the economy.

"Raises have exceeded productivity gains by such wide margins, and for so many years, that increases equaling these gains are already being paid well in advance and for many years to come," Maxwell said.

Thomas F. Patton, president of Republic Steel Corp. who doubles as institute chairman, said industry profits dropped 22 per cent in the last four years and that the trend continued downward.

"These are critical times for steel," he said in prepared remarks.

Police said the road was slick from a sudden rain and the truck skidded when the driver braked.

Body Missing In Air Crash Fatal To 45

UNIONVILLE, Mo. (AP)—One body was still missing today in the fatal crash of a Continental Airlines jet plane. The other 44 bodies were in an improvised morgue here.

Search for the missing, unidentified victim and for the cause of the accident that tore the big plane apart in the air over southern Iowa continued with teams of federal investigators on hand.

The plane had been advised of thunderstorm turbulence as it neared Kansas City on its flight from Chicago.

Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb Halaby said there was not a shred of evidence that the airliner had collided with a small plane or had been ripped apart by a bomb. He also said there was nothing to show that it may have been caught in a tornado.

The only person who might have been able to tell what had happened died in a hospital soon after he was removed alive. He was one of the 37 passenters, a Japanese-born engineer. All eight crew members, including four hostesses, died in the crash.

He and his wife, Anna Margaret, have two children, John David, 14, and Carolyn Ann, 13.

Salvation Army Drive Extended; To End June 30

W. Edward Adkins, general chairman, announced today the Salvation Army building fund campaign has been extended to June 30 to allow workers to complete calls on industry, business and individuals.

Preliminary calls on larger firms have been "very favorable" and several companies now are beginning the soliciation of executives, supervisory and other personnel, Adkins said.

Division chairmen were urged to keep in close contact with the workers and to begin turning in their completed report cards.

E. L. Wheatley, president of the IBOP, has expressed his full endorsement of the action taken by the Trades and Labor Council, which has announced its approval and support of the Army's campaign to raise $115,410, Adkins said.

Wheatley said that "while the international has no connection with projects in the local areas he feels sure that the union Locals will work with the plantwide committees in various potteries and will do their part in the drive to assist the less fortunate."

2 Auto Victims Listed In 'Critical' Condition

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said today Mrs. Lewis had difficulty in getting out of the auto because of a seat belt.

Mrs. Lewis was en route to the city to teach at the Lewis-Weinberger & Hill Cosmetology Academy.

Salan's Life Term Seen As OAS Victory

PARIS (AP) — A special tribunal's sentence of life imprisonment for ex-Gen. Raoul Salan was interpreted by many Frenchmen today as a victory for the terrorist Secret Army.

The mixed judicial-military-civilian court Wednesday night found the head of the Secret Army guilty of treason but spared his life because of extenuating circumstances. It did not explain the extenuating circumstances.

The same court earlier had given a death sentence to Salan's chief deputy in the Secret Army, Ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud. Many Frenchmen felt President Charles de Gaulle's only choice now was to commute Jouhaud's sentence to life imprisonment.

"The Secret Army won," said a white-collar employe on his way to work, expressing a widely held opinion.

The courtroom, packed with sympathizers of Salan and the Secret Army, broke into pandemonium at the announcement by court president Charles Bornet that the tribunal had found circumstances to extenuate Salan's leading role in the abortive general's revolt in Algiers in April 1961 and his leadership of the Secret Army terrorists.

The seven straight complete games pitched this spring by San Francisco hurlers represented the longest such streak since Milwaukee pitchers reeled off eight straight complete games in August of 1955.

He was treated at the hospital at 6:40 p. m. for a laceration of the scalp. According to Ohioville police, an unidentified motorist slowed to make a right turn onto Tuscarawas Rd., and the tractor-trailer, which was following, jack-knifed and hit the other vehicle.

Police said the road was slick from a sudden rain and the truck skidded when the driver braked.

Body Missing In Air Crash Fatal To 45

UNIONVILLE, Mo. (AP)—One body was still missing today in the fatal crash of a Continental Airlines jet plane. The other 44 bodies were in an improvised morgue here.

Search for the missing, unidentified victim and for the cause of the accident that tore the big plane apart in the air over southern Iowa continued with teams of federal investigators on hand.

The plane had been advised of thunderstorm turbulence as it neared Kansas City on its flight from Chicago.

Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb Halaby said there was not a shred of evidence that the airliner had collided with a small plane or had been ripped apart by a bomb. He also said there was nothing to show that it may have been caught in a tornado.

The only person who might have been able to tell what had happened died in a hospital soon after he was removed alive. He was one of the 37 passenters, a Japanese-born engineer. All eight crew members, including four hostesses, died in the crash.

E. L. Wheatley, president of the IBOP, has expressed his full endorsement of the action taken by the Trades and Labor Council, which has announced its approval and support of the Army's campaign to raise $115,410, Adkins said.

Salan's Life Term Seen As OAS Victory

PARIS (AP) — A special tribunal's sentence of life imprisonment for ex-Gen. Raoul Salan was interpreted by many Frenchmen today as a victory for the terrorist Secret Army.

The mixed judicial-military-civilian court Wednesday night found the head of the Secret Army guilty of treason but spared his life because of extenuating circumstances. It did not explain the extenuating circumstances.

The same court earlier had given a death sentence to Salan's chief deputy in the Secret Army, Ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud. Many Frenchmen felt President Charles de Gaulle's only choice now was to commute Jouhaud's sentence to life imprisonment.

The courtroom, packed with sympathizers of Salan and the Secret Army, broke into pandemonium at the announcement by court president Charles Bornet that the tribunal had found circumstances to extenuate Salan's leading role in the abortive general's revolt in Algiers in April 1961 and his leadership of the Secret Army terrorists.

The seven straight complete games pitched this spring by San Francisco hurlers represented the longest such streak since Milwaukee pitchers reeled off eight straight complete games in August of 1955.

Communists Urge Fleeing Red Chinese To Stay Home

By FORREST EDWARDS

HONG KONG (AP) — Blaring Communist loudspeakers today appealed to Chinese fleeing Red China to stay home and help grow needed food. But Red border guards reportedly made no attempt to stop the flow of refugees to Hong Kong.

About 5,000 succeeded in getting across the frontier into this British crown colony before dawn. Sources in the border area said all but about 500 were rounded up by British police and army patrols. They were rushed to a detention camp for return to Red China.

Reports from the sealed-off border area said the Communist loudspeaker broadcasts to throngs massing along the Hong Kong line were given as patriotic advice rather than orders. Border sources said they had nothing to substantiate earlier Hong Kong press reports that Red guards had commanded the waiting mobs to turn back and fired warning shots when their orders went unheeded.

The Hong Kong government expressed appreciation for the interest and concern shown by the United States for Hong Kong's problem.

A government spokesman voiced the appreciation after reports that President Kennedy had cleared the way for between 5,000 and 6,000 refugees to be admitted to the United States.

Two Republican Groups Get Pep Talk By Rhodes

Of the series of questions DiSalle, his Democratic opponent, has asked, Rhodes said: "I do not know what my worthy opponent intends to do, but my campaign will be on facts and figures. I will start when I think the people of Ohio are ready to listen."

The auditor told 200 members of the Lake County Republican Women's Club he intends to campaign on tax and finance issues and not on a series of questions from one candidate to another. He told the group and later Geauga County Republicans at a meeting in Bainbridge Twp. that an unbalanced budget leads to instability and ultimate financial chaos and destroys the climate that attracts industrial expansion.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a window peeper. Oh, he doesn't stand outside strange houses and look — he's much too sophisticated for that. He has the finest binoculars on the market and can operate very nicely from a pitch-black patio or from our bedroom window.

For months I considered this my own secret shame (thinking, of course, there was something terribly wrong with him) when recently at a dinner party the subject came up. I learned to my horror that almost every man present was engaging in the same sport.

The peepers gleefully compared notes on the best type of binoculars and the most effective vantage points. Then the conversation fanned out to include the fascinating things that had been seen.

This letter is not a request for advice. Nothing I could say or do would get him to stop anyway. I'm writing in the hope that you will print this letter, along with my pleas to all female readers, to keep your shades down, girls. And I mean all the way down.—IMA GINIT.

Dean Ima: The fact that the sport is popular doesn't make it decent. Psychologists tell us that men who go in for peek-a-boo magazines and the spyglass routine are insecure and-or immature. Often they are incapable of anything beyond looking.

Poor Money Manager

Dear Ann: My husband is a salesman and makes good money, but it seems to disappear into thin air.

We have seven children. He gives me $20 a week for groceries. When I tell him I just can't manage on what he gives me, he says, "Buy more beans and spuds." Then he throws up his mother to me. She managed with nine kids and no income — just a truck garden and a couple of cows.

I'm ashamed to send the children to school, their clothes are so badly worn. The neighbors bring over clothing which their children have outgrown. I have one good dress to my name. My husband always looks like an executive.

Our house needs repairing badly but he never has money for such "luxuries." Last Christmas he spent $40 on a gift for his boss. If he'd let me handle the money we could come out all right and I wouldn't have to worry about the utility company's turning off the juice. What can I do? — CHURCH MICE.

Dear Mice: Ask an unbiased third party to sit down with you and go over the financial facts of life.

In some families it's the wife who is better at managing the money. When such is the case the husband should be happy to let her do it.

Uneven Match

Dear Ann: Please tell me how to fall out of love with my husband. We have been married 15 years.

Harvey is cold and unaffectionate. He actually pushes me away when I try to kiss him. I can't remember the last time we had a conversation. He only speaks to me when he has something to criticize.

He spends money lavishly on himself but I have to account for every penny. Harvey is rude to me in public and embarrasses me with his critical remarks in front of my family and friends. Yet I adore him.

If I could just stop loving him so much life would be tolerable.

Can you help me? — SLAVE TO LOVE.

Dear Slave: Some women thrive on abuse and get satisfaction from being mistreated. If a man showered a woman with kindness and consideration she would not care for him.

Of course this is a sick approach to love which goes way back to childhood. Years of therapy would be required to straighten out such a personality problem.

It certainly is too big a job to attempt by a single letter. Get help.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lillian Roth Portrait Restored To Gallery

NEW YORK (AP) — Lillian Roth has been restored to the picture gallery that is a feature of Broadway's best-known theatrical restaurant (Sardi's) after a 20-year absence.

Miss Roth was one of the first celebrities to be caricatured by the restaurant's first artist, Alex Gard, but the portrait was stored away when she slipped out of show business. She recently resumed her career as a principal player in the musical "I Can Get It for You Wholesale," and the rehanging ensued.

NEW YORK (AP)— Announcer Hugh Downs will succeed John Chancellor in September as host of the National Broadcasting Company's television "Today" program, the network said Wednesday.

Downs also will continue on "Concentration," NBC-TV's daytime program.

However, he will leave the "Tonight" show, with which he has been associated since 1957.

Long Illness Fatal

CLINTON, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Edith Root Grant, 83, daughter of former Secretary of State Elihu Root, died Wednesday after a long illness. She was the wife of Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, a grandson of the 18th president of the United States. She was born in New York City.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Change Of Pace Lessens Tension

The modern homemaker is chairman of the board of civilization's most essential unit — the family. It's a 24-hour-a-day job. In addition to cherishing her husband, rearing her children and running a well-ordered household, she is expected to be an intelligent, charming hostess, a volunteer worker in church and community—and oftentimes a wage earner.

Ida Jean Kain

Even a superwoman finds herself stretched in all directions by these heavy demands on her time, energy and peace of mind.

This situation can cause tension and a little tension goes a long way. According to Dr. Robert H. Felix, Director of the National Institute of Mental Health, "When tension gets out of hand it threatens not only our physical well-being but also our own mental health."

WHAT CAN the homemaker do to avoid this? What helpful suggestion is there that doesn't seem to add one more chore to her day?

"Change the pace," recommends Dr. Felix. "Take a tip from the Boy Scouts who have learned they can hike longer with less fatigue if they walk a little, then trot, take a short, rest, and walk again."

Homemakers, relax a minute—ease the feeling of pressure. Could you time your work so that you allow a brief break in the day to do exactly as you wish? I keep remembering the wise young mother of five who set sail for "Treasure Island" each day at lunch.

While preparing the children's lunch she set up her own tray. After kissing the schoolers goodbye and tucking the nappers in bed, she used this one precious hour for renewal.

In giving all of yourself to others all of the time it's natural to feel drained. With a change in timing and thinking, you will have a new viewpoint. "Even if you have only 15 minutes a day in which to change your pace, making the most of this time will do much to help create tranquillity in your home," Dr. Felix assures.

"THE HOMEMAKER can accept everyday chores as a challenge to her ingenuity. She can devise ways of doing routine tasks so efficiently that there is time 'left over' for the more creative aspects of homemaking.

"By these I mean not only gardening, gourmet cooking and dressmaking, I mean too the capacity to cultivate warm and loving relationships within the family, to form lasting friendships, to become a woman who gives encouragement and happiness to the persons who enter her life."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a window peeper. Oh, he doesn't stand outside strange houses and look — he's much too sophisticated for that. He has the finest binoculars on the market and can operate very nicely from a pitch-black patio or from our bedroom window.

For months I considered this my own secret shame (thinking, of course, there was something terribly wrong with him) when recently at a dinner party the subject came up. I learned to my horror that almost every man present was engaging in the same sport.

The peepers gleefully compared notes on the best type of binoculars and the most effective vantage points. Then the conversation fanned out to include the fascinating things that had been seen.

This letter is not a request for advice. Nothing I could say or do would get him to stop anyway. I'm writing in the hope that you will print this letter, along with my pleas to all female readers, to keep your shades down, girls. And I mean all the way down.—IMA GINIT.

Dean Ima: The fact that the sport is popular doesn't make it decent. Psychologists tell us that men who go in for peek-a-boo magazines and the spyglass routine are insecure and-or immature. Often they are incapable of anything beyond looking.

Poor Money Manager

Dear Ann: My husband is a salesman and makes good money, but it seems to disappear into thin air.

We have seven children. He gives me $20 a week for groceries. When I tell him I just can't manage on what he gives me, he says, "Buy more beans and spuds." Then he throws up his mother to me. She managed with nine kids and no income — just a truck garden and a couple of cows.

I'm ashamed to send the children to school, their clothes are so badly worn. The neighbors bring over clothing which their children have outgrown. I have one good dress to my name. My husband always looks like an executive.

Our house needs repairing badly but he never has money for such "luxuries." Last Christmas he spent $40 on a gift for his boss. If he'd let me handle the money we could come out all right and I wouldn't have to worry about the utility company's turning off the juice. What can I do? — CHURCH MICE.

Dear Mice: Ask an unbiased third party to sit down with you and go over the financial facts of life.

In some families it's the wife who is better at managing the money. When such is the case the husband should be happy to let her do it.

Uneven Match

Dear Ann: Please tell me how to fall out of love with my husband. We have been married 15 years.

Harvey is cold and unaffectionate. He actually pushes me away when I try to kiss him. I can't remember the last time we had a conversation. He only speaks to me when he has something to criticize.

He spends money lavishly on himself but I have to account for every penny. Harvey is rude to me in public and embarrasses me with his critical remarks in front of my family and friends. Yet I adore him.

If I could just stop loving him so much life would be tolerable.

Can you help me? — SLAVE TO LOVE.

Dear Slave: Some women thrive on abuse and get satisfaction from being mistreated. If a man showered a woman with kindness and consideration she would not care for him.

Of course this is a sick approach to love which goes way back to childhood. Years of therapy would be required to straighten out such a personality problem.

It certainly is too big a job to attempt by a single letter. Get help.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lillian Roth Portrait Restored To Gallery

NEW YORK (AP) — Lillian Roth has been restored to the picture gallery that is a feature of Broadway's best-known theatrical restaurant (Sardi's) after a 20-year absence.

Miss Roth was one of the first celebrities to be caricatured by the restaurant's first artist, Alex Gard, but the portrait was stored away when she slipped out of show business. She recently resumed her career as a principal player in the musical "I Can Get It for You Wholesale," and the rehanging ensued.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Change Of Pace Lessens Tension

The modern homemaker is chairman of the board of civilization's most essential unit — the family. It's a 24-hour-a-day job. In addition to cherishing her husband, rearing her children and running a well-ordered household, she is expected to be an intelligent, charming hostess, a volunteer worker in church and community—and oftentimes a wage earner.

Ida Jean Kain

Even a superwoman finds herself stretched in all directions by these heavy demands on her time, energy and peace of mind.

This situation can cause tension and a little tension goes a long way. According to Dr. Robert H. Felix, Director of the National Institute of Mental Health, "When tension gets out of hand it threatens not only our physical well-being but also our own mental health."

WHAT CAN the homemaker do to avoid this? What helpful suggestion is there that doesn't seem to add one more chore to her day?

"Change the pace," recommends Dr. Felix. "Take a tip from the Boy Scouts who have learned they can hike longer with less fatigue if they walk a little, then trot, take a short, rest, and walk again."

Homemakers, relax a minute—ease the feeling of pressure. Could you time your work so that you allow a brief break in the day to do exactly as you wish? I keep remembering the wise young mother of five who set sail for "Treasure Island" each day at lunch.

While preparing the children's lunch she set up her own tray. After kissing the schoolers goodbye and tucking the nappers in bed, she used this one precious hour for renewal.

In giving all of yourself to others all of the time it's natural to feel drained. With a change in timing and thinking, you will have a new viewpoint. "Even if you have only 15 minutes a day in which to change your pace, making the most of this time will do much to help create tranquillity in your home," Dr. Felix assures.

"THE HOMEMAKER can accept everyday chores as a challenge to her ingenuity. She can devise ways of doing routine tasks so efficiently that there is time 'left over' for the more creative aspects of homemaking.

"By these I mean not only gardening, gourmet cooking and dressmaking, I mean too the capacity to cultivate warm and loving relationships within the family, to form lasting friendships, to become a woman who gives encouragement and happiness to the persons who enter her life."

Isn't this easing of your hectic pace worth a wholehearted try?

Wellsville May Ask School Levy

A new operating levy for the Wellsville school system may be necessary unless aid is forthcoming from some other source, such as an improved state foundation or rehabilitation program, it was revealed at a citizen's committee meeting Wednesday night at Daw Junior High School.

About 30 attended the session held in conjunction with a state movement designed to give the public more information about school operations and problems and to make recommendations to state officials for improvement.

Earl Bake, Board of Education president, revealed that the board is contemplating asking for the new operating levy after the new property evaluation is complete. He did not desigate the amount.

During the evening, County Auditor Kenneth Bell spoke and answered questions on school taxes, while Raymond Rolley, board clerk, presented figures comparing Wellsville with Toronto and other surrounding systems.

Rolley said it is surprising Wellsville is able to keep teachers because of the competition from the other districts. He pointed out Wellsville's top salary is $5,850 while it is $6,800 at Toronto. He said Wellsville educates about 300 more pupils each year than Toronto with about $240,000 less money.

Wellsville ranks fourth in 16 schools included in a survey in the amount of assistance given the schools by the residents through taxes while Toronto is way down on the list, but they have a power plant on the tax duplicate, he commented.

Rolley said Wellsville has joined in the fight for state rehabilitation but it has been to no avail for the past two years. Under the program, the state pays 65 cents on the dollar for rehabilitation work to present facilities.

Rolley said a revision is needed in state foundation program as it favors the larger, richer districts by giving them the same amount for each classroom unit.

Bell said the primary difficulty is that the city and county are about 30 years behind on school problems.

He said zoning laws and building ordinances are needed locally and on a countywide basis so the area will become more attractive to new industry.

"We also must carry our share and not place all the tax burden on the industry," he said. Pointing to the recent census, Bell said the figures show that the county had a 10,000 increase in population while Wellsville and East Liverpool showed decreases.

"We are in a disaster pocket," he continued, explaining the trend is for people to move to rural areas closer to Youngstown and Pennsylvania where work is more plentiful.

Discussing taxes, Bell commented that the industrial appraisal and commercial business appraisal has dropped since the 1952 appraisal. On the commercial level, residents are going to shopping centers and not to the towns, Bell said.

The county is 8 per cent above the state minimum on loss of sales tax. "The people will have to pick up the loss in taxation," he said.

Bell said that Stanton Local, which is supported largely by the Ohio Edison Co. plant, has approximately 600 pupils with a tax valuation of $46,271,000 and a 15.55 millage in school taxes which results in $400,000. The foundation program provides another $55,000.

The total for all of Wellsville is $558,000 with 1,800 pupils. Wellsville's starting salary for new teachers is the lowest in the county, he commented.

He also said the revaluation will not aid Wellsville very much. As an example, he said he pays $8 a month in taxes on his home in Wellsville and then asked, "where can you provide an education for your children and receive police and fire protection along with other city services as cheaply?"

Bake urged those present to get behind the movement so citizens can be informed as to the problems faced by the system. He invited them to attend board meetings and give their views on problems.

He pointed out the system will be losing pupils when the new Southern Local high school is constructed. If the new highway goes through Wellsville, it also will cause a loss in enrollment.

During the discussion period, it was suggested the problems be carried to the State Legislature and to the representatives from the county. Rolley said the larger cities control the legislature because they have more votes and thereby favor programs which will do them the most good.

Another participant suggested an all-out effort be made with the legislature and a check be made on the efficiency of the system before asking for more taxation. "If this is done, and no other recourse found, then put on a drive locally for new levies," he said.

It also was suggested that cutting down athletic programs might save money but Rolley pointed out the Athletic Board controls this phase and the entire program is self - supporting. No money is put into athletics by the board, he said.

Rolley said a total of 84.69 per cent of the system's funds go for salaries of teachers and other personnel. This leaves about 15 per cent to operate on, he commented.

Another commented that Wellsville shouldn't wait for some politician to act, but should do something about the problem now. "We have to act on our own," she said. She also commented some families have moved from Wellsvile so their children can attend more lucrative systems.

Bell, in answer to another comment, said schools do not receive money from taxes on gasoline, cigarettes, alcoholic beverages, etc. The only money they receive is from levies and foundation programs.

William Ferrall, a board member, said the discussion all points to the need for a citizens' committee to work with the board. He said a chairman will be named later. Bake said another session will be held after the school term ends. The discussion will be on curriculum, he said.

Board Hires 2 As Therapists

BEAVER — The Beaver County Board of Education employed two new speech and hearing therapists Tuesday evening so that every school in the county can have the service.

Donald Hall of Ellwood City, a graduate of Indiana State College, and Miss Virginia Ripper of Beaver, who will graduate in June from Kent State, were hired.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Mary Jane Sipe, instructor in the program for crippled children at the Beaver center. It also accepted the resignation of C. A. Peters, instructor of older boys in the special education classes, who will work with the mentally retarded in the county.

The board approved the reelection of the three county assistant superintendents, R. O. Robertson and Geraid Newton of Beaver and Dr. Richard Fruth of Freedom, along with Mrs. Hannah Parks of Beaver, superintendent of special education.

Razing of the third building will be delayed until the Eason Insurance Agency can move to new quarters on E. 4th St., he added.

No date has been set for completion of the work.

Bell said that Stanton Local, which is supported largely by the Ohio Edison Co. plant, has approximately 600 pupils with a tax valuation of $46,271,000 and a 15.55 millage in school taxes which results in $400,000. The foundation program provides another $55,000.

The total for all of Wellsville is $558,000 with 1,800 pupils. Wellsville's starting salary for new teachers is the lowest in the county, he commented.

He also said the revaluation will not aid Wellsville very much. As an example, he said he pays $8 a month in taxes on his home in Wellsville and then asked, "where can you provide an education for your children and receive police and fire protection along with other city services as cheaply?"

Bake urged those present to get behind the movement so citizens can be informed as to the problems faced by the system. He invited them to attend board meetings and give their views on problems.

He pointed out the system will be losing pupils when the new Southern Local high school is constructed. If the new highway goes through Wellsville, it also will cause a loss in enrollment.

During the discussion period, it was suggested the problems be carried to the State Legislature and to the representatives from the county. Rolley said the larger cities control the legislature because they have more votes and thereby favor programs which will do them the most good.

Another participant suggested an all-out effort be made with the legislature and a check be made on the efficiency of the system before asking for more taxation. "If this is done, and no other recourse found, then put on a drive locally for new levies," he said.

It also was suggested that cutting down athletic programs might save money but Rolley pointed out the Athletic Board controls this phase and the entire program is self - supporting. No money is put into athletics by the board, he said.

Rolley said a total of 84.69 per cent of the system's funds go for salaries of teachers and other personnel. This leaves about 15 per cent to operate on, he commented.

Another commented that Wellsville shouldn't wait for some politician to act, but should do something about the problem now. "We have to act on our own," she said. She also commented some families have moved from Wellsvile so their children can attend more lucrative systems.

Bell, in answer to another comment, said schools do not receive money from taxes on gasoline, cigarettes, alcoholic beverages, etc. The only money they receive is from levies and foundation programs.

William Ferrall, a board member, said the discussion all points to the need for a citizens' committee to work with the board. He said a chairman will be named later. Bake said another session will be held after the school term ends. The discussion will be on curriculum, he said.

Board Hires 2 As Therapists

BEAVER — The Beaver County Board of Education employed two new speech and hearing therapists Tuesday evening so that every school in the county can have the service.

Donald Hall of Ellwood City, a graduate of Indiana State College, and Miss Virginia Ripper of Beaver, who will graduate in June from Kent State, were hired.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Mary Jane Sipe, instructor in the program for crippled children at the Beaver center. It also accepted the resignation of C. A. Peters, instructor of older boys in the special education classes, who will work with the mentally retarded in the county.

The board approved the reelection of the three county assistant superintendents, R. O. Robertson and Geraid Newton of Beaver and Dr. Richard Fruth of Freedom, along with Mrs. Hannah Parks of Beaver, superintendent of special education.

Phils Trip Leaders; Giants Collapsing?

Lead By 1½; Bucs Batter Cards, 6-3

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia's flip-flop Phillies, rejoining the National League's more respected members for the 1962 campaign, have continued San Francisco's skid and cut another length off the Giants bulge in that tightening pennant race.

Playing solid ball after shaking off the effects of last year's disastrous 23-game losing streak and a last-place finish 46 games back, the Phillies thumped the league-leading Giants 10-7 Wednesday night.

It was the third consecutive loss for the Giants who up until a week ago were pulverizing the opposition with 17 victories in 20 games and had built a 4½-game lead.

Now the Phils, striving to climb into the first division of the expanded 10-club circuit, have cut the Giants edge to 1½ games while moving into a virtual tie for sixth place.

The Los Angeles Dodgers moved into second place with a 3-1 triumph over the New York Mets behind Don Drysdale's four-hitter. St. Louis, its six-game victory string ended by a 6-3 loss to Pittsburgh, dropped into third, 2½ back.

Houston blanked fourth-place Cincinnati 2-0 on Ken Johnson's five-hitter and Milwaukee beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2 as Warren Spahn posted the 314th triumph of his career with a five-hitter.

Tony Taylor and rookie Ted Savage each stroked a double and two singles, scoring three runs apiece, to pace the Phillies' 13-hit outburst against Mike McCormick (1-2) and four successors. Art Mahaffey (4-5) started for the Phils, allowed only four hits through six innings, but had to leave when his arm stiffened. The Giants battled back with three runs each off relievers Frank Sullivan and Jack Baldschun but fell short.

The Dodgers cracked a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Ron Fairly's sacrifice fly knocked in the winner before Frank Howard's grounder added an insurance run. The victory was Drysdale's sixth against three losses. Roger Craig (2-5) went the distance, allowing 11 hits.

The Pirates jumped on Larry Jackson (4-5) for four first inning runs. Ken Boyer homered for the Cards and Bill White went 4-for-4 but it wasn't enough. Harvey Haddix (3-2) got the victory with relief help from Tom Sturdivant and Diomedes Olivo.

BOB PUTT is East Liverpool's lone representative in the state golf tournament which gets underway Friday morning over the Scarlet course at Ohio State University. Putt left this morning for Columbus and planned to shoot a practice round this afternoon. Two 18-hole rounds will be played Friday and Saturday. The Potter senior, who ranks with the best ever to play at ELHS, qualified for the state meet by winning medalist honors at last week's District tournament at St. Clairsville. He fired an even par 72 over the Belmont Hills Country Club.

NBA Approves Transfer Of Warriors To Frisco

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco is in, but still faces a fight; Philadelphia is out, only after a fight; and no one seems to know about Batlimore.

That's the situation in the National Basketball Association today after the league's board of directors spent another all day session discussing sales, transfers and expansion.

The major development was league approval of the sale and transfer of the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco for the 1962-63 season. It leaves Philadelphia, long an NBA stronghold, without a professional team.

The status of Baltimore, which has applied for a franchise and been given tentative approval, remained in a maybe so, maybe no status. NBA officials are known to have privately expressed discontent with the league's present nine-team makeup, but whether Baltimore will be granted a franchise apparently depends on a suitable arena.

The sale of the Warriors to a group which plans to move it to San Francisco was vigorously opposed by representatives from Boston and New York both Wednesday and in a two-day meeting earlier this month.

Announcement that the NBA had approved the transfer brought an immediate announcement from the San Francisco Saints of the rival American Basketball League that they will fight the move.

Luplow, Essegian Perform Heroics

9th Inning Homers Give Donovan 8th Straight; Bosox Top Twins

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Remember the hard-luck Dick Donovan of just a year ago, with that disheartening string of five successive one-run losses? His luck is a little better this season and so's his record—8-0.

The big right-hander became the first eight-game winner in the majors Wednesday night when the Cleveland Indians cut loose with another eleventh-hour home run attack and overpowered the Chicago White Sox 5-4. Pinch hitting rookie Al Luplow and Chuck Essegian connected back-to-back in the ninth inning as the Tribe won for the third time in a week with ninth inning homers.

By winning the squeaker, Cleveland remained a half game behind the top-place Yankees, who buried Kansas City 13-7 with a nine-run eighth inning triggered and capped by rookie Joe Pepitone's home run blasts. Boston beat Minnesota 6-1 dropping the Twins to third, one game back. Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-2, while Detroit and the Orioles were rained out at Baltimore.

Donovan was tagged for 10 hits, one a two-run homer by Al Smith in the first, but singled in one run himself as the Indians stayed close to the White Sox all the way.

Dom Zanni, who had pitched pitched strongly in relief of Juan Pizarro, was the victim of Cleveland's uprising in the ninth. Luplow led off with his score-tying homer into Comiskey Park's lower left field deck and Essegian promptly zeroed in on the same sector.

Pepitone and fellow rookie Phil Linz, both fill-ins for the injury-hobbled Yankees, produced handsomely in the explosive rout of the A's. Held to four hits by Dan Pfister and trailing 7-4 going into the last of the eighth, the Yanks sent 12 men to bat in the inning.

Pepitone kicked off the rally with a homer and climaxed it with another with two aboard, becoming the 15th major leaguer to homer twice in one inning. Linz took over at third after Clete Boyer was hit on the wrist by a pitch in the third, homered in the seventh with one on for his first hit in the majors, and sent the Yanks ahead with a two-run single in the big eighth.

Tex Clevenger, called up from the minors Tuesday was the winner with one inning of relief and Diego Segui took the loss. Jimenez whacked a homer for the A's.

The Red Sox put a halt to their eight-game skid behind the seven-hit pitching of Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz. Gary Geiger had a homer and double in Boston's 13-hit offensive against Don Lee and two Minnesota relievers. Ed Bressoud also homered. Rich Rollins' homer accounted for the Twins' lone run.

Pete Burnside pitched a nine-hitter for the last-place Senators, who broke away from the Angels in the first three innings with seven runs—four of them unearned. Ted Bowsfield was the losing pitcher.

'She's A Monster,' Says Arnie Of Open Course

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—"She's a monster," Arnold Palmer said after coming to friendly grips with his next major golf antagonist—the Oakmont Country Club.

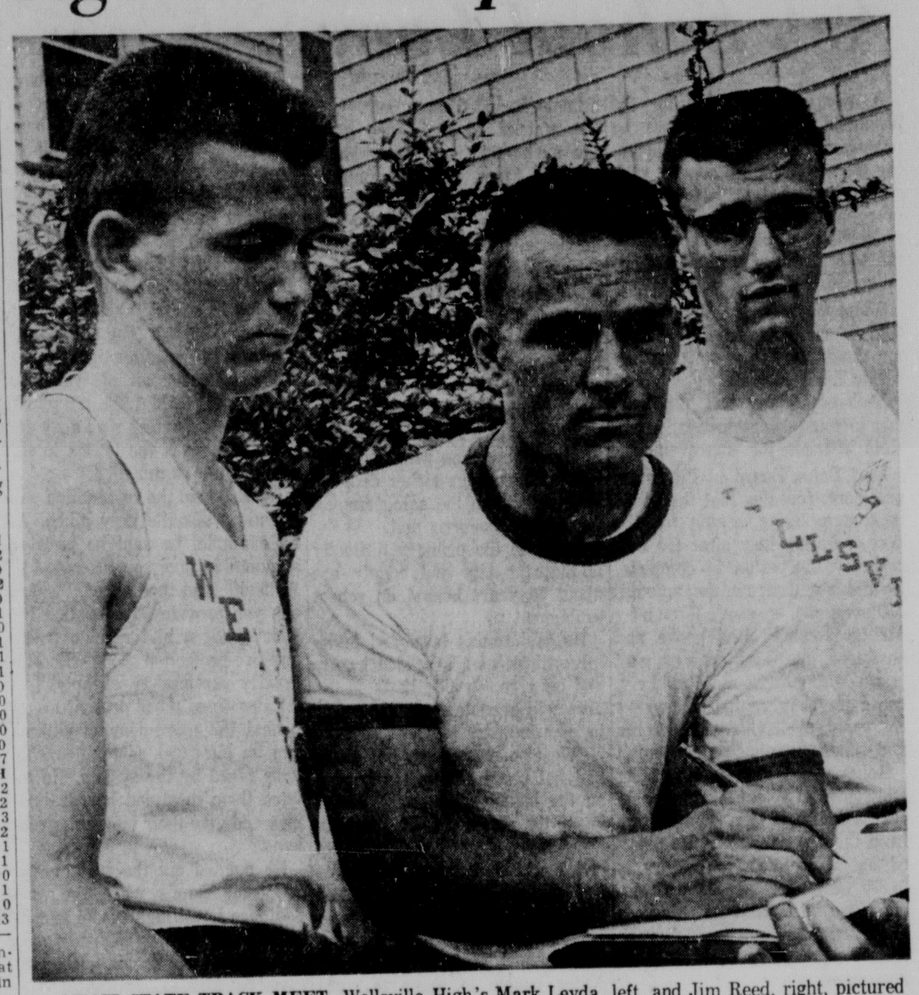

This piece of real estate nestling in the western Pennsylvania hills is the site of the 62nd National Open championship June 14-16. Palmer drove the 42 miles from his home in Latrobe, Pa., to play the course for the first time in four years.

"She's going to be awfully tough," golf's leading money winner and prime tournament favorite said after a scrambling 18 Wednesday. "I'm having to revise my estimates. Originally, I said 275 would win the open here. Now I believe it'll be nearer 280."

Palmer toured the 6,916-yard, par 71 layout with his professional father, Milfred (Pap) Palmer and two Latrobe neighbors, Harry Saxman and Ken Bowman.

"I didn't keep a score but I must have shot an 80," he said afterward. "I'll play it again later this week more seriously. I should get a better idea then."

Tigers Pin Hopes On Two

AWAIT STATE TRACK MEET. Wellsville High's Mark Leyda, left, and Jim Reed, right, pictured with Coach Ken Woods, will participate in the Ohio scholastic track and field meet Saturday in Columbus. The versatile Leyda will compete in the broad jump, an event he has won consistently this season. His best effort was 20 feet, 10 inches. A star sprinter, Reed will compete in the 220-yard dash. Leyda, a junior, and his sophomore teammate qualified for the state meet with outstanding performances last week in St. Clairsville, with Reed winning his specialty in 22.9.

Merchants Notch 2nd League Win

Don Hildebrand's booming triple, which sailed over the left fielder's head, drove in what proved to be the winning run in the East Liverpool Merchants' 6-5 victory over Negley Wednesday at Patterson Field.

The County-City League victory was the second in a row for Manager John Andrason's squad.

East Liverpool owned a 4-0 lead until Negley scored one run in the sixth frame. The winners came back to score two more in their half of the sixth, but Negley tallied four big markers in the seventh before the rally fell short.

Veteran righthander Dick Chamberlain went all the way for the locals, giving up nine hits and fanning 10. It was his second victory of the season.

Schleuter was the loser, allowing East Liverpool seven safeties.

Phils Trip Leaders; Giants Collapsing?

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia's flip-flop Phillies, rejoining the National League's more respected members for the 1962 campaign, have continued San Francisco's skid and cut another length off the Giants bulge in that tightening pennant race.

Playing solid ball after shaking off the effects of last year's disastrous 23-game losing streak and a last-place finish 46 games back, the Phillies thumped the league-leading Giants 10-7 Wednesday night.

It was the third consecutive loss for the Giants who up until a week ago were pulverizing the opposition with 17 victories in 20 games and had built a 4½-game lead.

Now the Phils, striving to climb into the first division of the expanded 10-club circuit, have cut the Giants edge to 1½ games while moving into a virtual tie for sixth place.

The Los Angeles Dodgers moved into second place with a 3-1 triumph over the New York Mets behind Don Drysdale's four-hitter. St. Louis, its six-game victory string ended by a 6-3 loss to Pittsburgh, dropped into third, 2½ back.

Houston blanked fourth-place Cincinnati 2-0 on Ken Johnson's five-hitter and Milwaukee beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2 as Warren Spahn posted the 314th triumph of his career with a five-hitter.

Tony Taylor and rookie Ted Savage each stroked a double and two singles, scoring three runs apiece, to pace the Phillies' 13-hit outburst against Mike McCormick (1-2) and four successors. Art Mahaffey (4-5) started for the Phils, allowed only four hits through six innings, but had to leave when his arm stiffened. The Giants battled back with three runs each off relievers Frank Sullivan and Jack Baldschun but fell short.

The Dodgers cracked a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Ron Fairly's sacrifice fly knocked in the winner before Frank Howard's grounder added an insurance run. The victory was Drysdale's sixth against three losses. Roger Craig (2-5) went the distance, allowing 11 hits.

The Pirates jumped on Larry Jackson (4-5) for four first inning runs. Ken Boyer homered for the Cards and Bill White went 4-for-4 but it wasn't enough. Harvey Haddix (3-2) got the victory with relief help from Tom Sturdivant and Diomedes Olivo.

NBA Approves Transfer Of Warriors To Frisco

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco is in, but still faces a fight; Philadelphia is out, only after a fight; and no one seems to know about Batlimore.

That's the situation in the National Basketball Association today after the league's board of directors spent another all day session discussing sales, transfers and expansion.

The major development was league approval of the sale and transfer of the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco for the 1962-63 season. It leaves Philadelphia, long an NBA stronghold, without a professional team.

The status of Baltimore, which has applied for a franchise and been given tentative approval, remained in a maybe so, maybe no status. NBA officials are known to have privately expressed discontent with the league's present nine-team makeup, but whether Baltimore will be granted a franchise apparently depends on a suitable arena.

The sale of the Warriors to a group which plans to move it to San Francisco was vigorously opposed by representatives from Boston and New York both Wednesday and in a two-day meeting earlier this month.

Announcement that the NBA had approved the transfer brought an immediate announcement from the San Francisco Saints of the rival American Basketball League that they will fight the move.

Luplow, Essegian Perform Heroics

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Remember the hard-luck Dick Donovan of just a year ago, with that disheartening string of five successive one-run losses? His luck is a little better this season and so's his record—8-0.

The big right-hander became the first eight-game winner in the majors Wednesday night when the Cleveland Indians cut loose with another eleventh-hour home run attack and overpowered the Chicago White Sox 5-4. Pinch hitting rookie Al Luplow and Chuck Essegian connected back-to-back in the ninth inning as the Tribe won for the third time in a week with ninth inning homers.

By winning the squeaker, Cleveland remained a half game behind the top-place Yankees, who buried Kansas City 13-7 with a nine-run eighth inning triggered and capped by rookie Joe Pepitone's home run blasts. Boston beat Minnesota 6-1 dropping the Twins to third, one game back. Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-2, while Detroit and the Orioles were rained out at Baltimore.

Donovan was tagged for 10 hits, one a two-run homer by Al Smith in the first, but singled in one run himself as the Indians stayed close to the White Sox all the way.

Dom Zanni, who had pitched pitched strongly in relief of Juan Pizarro, was the victim of Cleveland's uprising in the ninth. Luplow led off with his score-tying homer into Comiskey Park's lower left field deck and Essegian promptly zeroed in on the same sector.

Pepitone and fellow rookie Phil Linz, both fill-ins for the injury-hobbled Yankees, produced handsomely in the explosive rout of the A's. Held to four hits by Dan Pfister and trailing 7-4 going into the last of the eighth, the Yanks sent 12 men to bat in the inning.

Pepitone kicked off the rally with a homer and climaxed it with another with two aboard, becoming the 15th major leaguer to homer twice in one inning. Linz took over at third after Clete Boyer was hit on the wrist by a pitch in the third, homered in the seventh with one on for his first hit in the majors, and sent the Yanks ahead with a two-run single in the big eighth.

Tex Clevenger, called up from the minors Tuesday was the winner with one inning of relief and Diego Segui took the loss. Jimenez whacked a homer for the A's.

The Red Sox put a halt to their eight-game skid behind the seven-hit pitching of Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz. Gary Geiger had a homer and double in Boston's 13-hit offensive against Don Lee and two Minnesota relievers. Ed Bressoud also homered. Rich Rollins' homer accounted for the Twins' lone run.

Pete Burnside pitched a nine-hitter for the last-place Senators, who broke away from the Angels in the first three innings with seven runs—four of them unearned. Ted Bowsfield was the losing pitcher.

'She's A Monster,' Says Arnie Of Open Course

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—"She's a monster," Arnold Palmer said after coming to friendly grips with his next major golf antagonist—the Oakmont Country Club.

This piece of real estate nestling in the western Pennsylvania hills is the site of the 62nd National Open championship June 14-16. Palmer drove the 42 miles from his home in Latrobe, Pa., to play the course for the first time in four years.

"She's going to be awfully tough," golf's leading money winner and prime tournament favorite said after a scrambling 18 Wednesday. "I'm having to revise my estimates. Originally, I said 275 would win the open here. Now I believe it'll be nearer 280."

Palmer toured the 6,916-yard, par 71 layout with his professional father, Milfred (Pap) Palmer and two Latrobe neighbors, Harry Saxman and Ken Bowman.

"I didn't keep a score but I must have shot an 80," he said afterward. "I'll play it again later this week more seriously. I should get a better idea then."

Tigers Pin Hopes On Two

AWAIT STATE TRACK MEET. Wellsville High's Mark Leyda, left, and Jim Reed, right, pictured with Coach Ken Woods, will participate in the Ohio scholastic track and field meet Saturday in Columbus. The versatile Leyda will compete in the broad jump, an event he has won consistently this season. His best effort was 20 feet, 10 inches. A star sprinter, Reed will compete in the 220-yard dash. Leyda, a junior, and his sophomore teammate qualified for the state meet with outstanding performances last week in St. Clairsville, with Reed winning his specialty in 22.9.

Merchants Notch 2nd League Win

Don Hildebrand's booming triple, which sailed over the left fielder's head, drove in what proved to be the winning run in the East Liverpool Merchants' 6-5 victory over Negley Wednesday at Patterson Field.

The County-City League victory was the second in a row for Manager John Andrason's squad.

East Liverpool owned a 4-0 lead until Negley scored one run in the sixth frame. The winners came back to score two more in their half of the sixth, but Negley tallied four big markers in the seventh before the rally fell short.

Veteran righthander Dick Chamberlain went all the way for the locals, giving up nine hits and fanning 10. It was his second victory of the season.

Schleuter was the loser, allowing East Liverpool seven safeties.

NFL Head Given Big Pay Boost

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League has extended another solid vote of confidence in Commissioner Pete Rozelle by voting him a $10,000 bonus and boosting his salary $10,000 to $60,000 a year for five years.

In less than two years, the successor to the late Bert Bell has led the league to a clear cut court victory over the rival American Football League and helped clear the way for a new $9.3 million 2-year single network (CBS) television deal.

As a result of the court victory the league no longer lives under the shadow of a huge damage action. Under the new TV contract each club is expected to get $320,000 a year from the TV rights.

"We have no further expansion moves in mind until our two newest clubs (Minnesota and Dallas) are soundly well off the ground," said Rozelle, when asked about the future.

The league set the date of Sunday, Dec. 30 for the 1962 championship game to be played in the home park of the Eastern Conference winner. The Playoff Bowl game (between the two second-place teams) will be moved back from Saturday to Sunday, Jan. 6 at Miami's Orange Bowl. This move was made possible by the cooperation of the Pro Bowl promoters in Los Angeles who will permit players to report the night of Jan. 6 for their Jan. 13 All-Star Game.

Women To Organize Leagues At New Lanes

Meyer Seeks To Continue Streak With Offy Engine

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Louis Meyer, three-time winner of the Memorial Day 500-mile race and builder of the old reliable Offenhauser engine, says he and partner Dale Drake have no firm plans for a new power plant.

"It's not our fault that we have no competition at the Speedway," says the amiable Californian. "Anybody can build an engine to the race specifications."

Offys have won every Indianapolis race since 1946, when George Robson took the first pre-war 500 in a six-cylinder Thorne-Sparks car. Most of the vehicles in that event were so elderly the question was whether anybody would finish.

All of the qualifiers in the 46th 500 next Wednesday are powered by Offy 4s except the rear-engine Thompson Special with a modified V-8 Buick Special block, which grand prix driver Dan Gurney will start.

The remarkable thing about the Offy is that the design hasn't been changed for 32 years. The winning speed in the 500 has gone up from 100 to more than 139 miles an hour in that time. The qualifying record has jumped from 122 to 150.

There have been improvements in metals and changes in bore and stroke, but the Offy still is substantially the same engine Leo Goosen designed for Harry Miller 32 years ago. Fred Offenhauser, Miller's shop foreman, took over the plant and gave the engine his name. Meyer and Drake bought it from Offenhauser in 1946.

Chicago Seen As Site For Title Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've been wondering, or even worrying, where the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight will be held, you can relax now. Ninety-nine per cent sure says Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports Inc., appoi ed promoters by the champion himself, Floyd Patterson.

"Unless something comes up, Chicago is the place," said Patterson at a press conference on Wednesday evening. Patterson has the right to be skeptical since the night before he thought it was all set for Detroit.

"But at the last minute I discovered that the people in Detroit were figuring on having local promoters to help stage the fight.

"I immediately said that was impossible because Championship Sports Inc., will be the sole promoters," said Patterson.

The only hitch that has to be overcome in Chicago, according to both Patterson and Bolan, is to get a reasonable rental for either Soldier Field or Comiskey Park.

"If they should ask us for a rental of $200,000 or $300,000 for either of those fields then it's something else again," said the champion.

Hunt Continues For Boat, Man

CLEVELAND (AP)—An air and sea search was continued by the Coast Guard today for a 17-foot sailboat piloted by a Chagrin Falls man reported missing on Lake Erie since Tuesday.

Participating in the hunt for Ernest M. Bucher, 42, were two amphibian Coast Guard planes from Traverse City, Mich., two Royal Canadian Air Force planes from Trenton, Ont., two Coast Guard cutters and 12 patrol boats.

Bucher left the Chagrin River Yacht Club aboard the sailboat "Breezealong" at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday and headed east toward Mentor. His wife reported him missing when he failed to call for her at the school where she teaches that afternoon.

Bucher, a stationary engineer, is the father of two boys.

Boxing Probers Eye Influences And Odds

NEW YORK (AP) — A joint legislative committee investigating boxing in New York next will look into such matters as criminal influences and the manipulation of odds.

The committee, its investigation spurred by the ring death of former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret, closed three days of public hearings Wednesday.

No definite date for further hearings was set, but Assemblyman Hayward Plumadore, heading the probe, said further hearings definitely will be held. The committee is seeking to determine if boxing should be banned in the state.

Edwards Now Owns Share Of Wheeling

Following several weeks of speculation, James F. Edwards, president of Waterford Park, announced today he has become financially interested in Wheeling Downs and will take active part in its operation immediately.

Edwards and Tom Maren, who bought the track for $1,250,000 recently, are completing plans for extensive improvements at Wheeling Downs that will be started following the spring meeting which opens Friday and runs for 32 nights, through June 30.

Post time has been set at 7:15 throughout the meeting except for the double bill scheduled for Memorial Day when two complete programs of eight races will be scheduled.

Racing Track Union Strikes

WHEELING — The opening of Wheeling Downs' spring racing meeting set for Friday night became clouded today when the Local 101 Race Track Employees Union, which includes ticket sellers and cashiers, declared a strike over wage disagreements, asserting contract negotiations have broken down completely.

Harry A. Walton, secretary of Local 101, said "after two weeks of negotiations with James Edwards and associates we have failed to come to an agreement. We have offered to work under terms of the old contract and go into neutral arbitration. Edwards, owner of Waterford Park and apparent owner of Wheeling Downs has refused to concede on this point, so regrettfully we have been forced into a strike. There will be pickets at Wheeling Downs Friday night."

Officers of the Wheeling Downs Racing Association today asserted the meeting would begin on schedule Friday night with post time 7:15 and have opened the way for employment to bank clerks, cashiers, bookkeepers and other clerical workers at the present union rate of $9 to $35 per night and depending upon capabilities. This offer is being made to both men and women.

Wheeling Downs Racing Association said it offered a continuation of the contract existing between the track and the union, providing a scale of $9 to $35 daily for four to five hours work.

Edwards, speaking for Wheeling Downs Racing Association, said "we offered to gamble with them on an escalator agreement, and that if we average between $161,000 and $194,000 per day we would pay the same as the existing contract, and should we go over $194,000 we increase at the rate of $1 per day. The association has gone so far as to agree to a closed shop but the union remained adamant in their position and refused to co-operate."

Edwards said, "the Wheeling Downs Racing Association is not anti-union and is very friendly with unions. We negotiated on a fair basis with the officers of the union but the reaction by union members brought about a termination of negotiations this morning."

NFL Head Given Big Pay Boost

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League has extended another solid vote of confidence in Commissioner Pete Rozelle by voting him a $10,000 bonus and boosting his salary $10,000 to $60,000 a year for five years.

In less than two years, the successor to the late Bert Bell has led the league to a clear cut court victory over the rival American Football League and helped clear the way for a new $9.3 million 2-year single network (CBS) television deal.

As a result of the court victory the league no longer lives under the shadow of a huge damage action. Under the new TV contract each club is expected to get $320,000 a year from the TV rights.

"We have no further expansion moves in mind until our two newest clubs (Minnesota and Dallas) are soundly well off the ground," said Rozelle, when asked about the future.

The league set the date of Sunday, Dec. 30 for the 1962 championship game to be played in the home park of the Eastern Conference winner. The Playoff Bowl game (between the two second-place teams) will be moved back from Saturday to Sunday, Jan. 6 at Miami's Orange Bowl. This move was made possible by the cooperation of the Pro Bowl promoters in Los Angeles who will permit players to report the night of Jan. 6 for their Jan. 13 All-Star Game.

Women To Organize Leagues At New Lanes

Women interested in bowling in a ladies summer and winter league are requested to attend a meeting Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Tri-State Lanes in Calcutta.

Meyer Seeks To Continue Streak With Offy Engine

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Louis Meyer, three-time winner of the Memorial Day 500-mile race and builder of the old reliable Offenhauser engine, says he and partner Dale Drake have no firm plans for a new power plant.

"It's not our fault that we have no competition at the Speedway," says the amiable Californian. "Anybody can build an engine to the race specifications."

Offys have won every Indianapolis race since 1946, when George Robson took the first pre-war 500 in a six-cylinder Thorne-Sparks car. Most of the vehicles in that event were so elderly the question was whether anybody would finish.

All of the qualifiers in the 46th 500 next Wednesday are powered by Offy 4s except the rear-engine Thompson Special with a modified V-8 Buick Special block, which grand prix driver Dan Gurney will start.

The remarkable thing about the Offy is that the design hasn't been changed for 32 years. The winning speed in the 500 has gone up from 100 to more than 139 miles an hour in that time. The qualifying record has jumped from 122 to 150.

There have been improvements in metals and changes in bore and stroke, but the Offy still is substantially the same engine Leo Goosen designed for Harry Miller 32 years ago. Fred Offenhauser, Miller's shop foreman, took over the plant and gave the engine his name. Meyer and Drake bought it from Offenhauser in 1946.

Wheeling Downs Racing Association said it offered a continuation of the contract existing between the track and the union, providing a scale of $9 to $35 daily for four to five hours work.

Area Man Hurt As Train Hits His Equipment

An area man is recuperating today at the Ohio Valley Hospital at Steubenville with injuries suffered in an accident involving a freight train and construction equipment Wednesday morning at 8 about a half mile north of Cadiz.

William Barrett, 47, of East Liverpool R. D. 2 was operating a gradeall which he backed onto the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and was struck by a diesel.

Barrett was thrown from the cab and landed on the catwalk around the diesel. He suffered a fractured leg and multiple abrasions and contusions.

Barrett was loading a dump truck at the site of a new road construction job, according to the Wintersville State Highway Patrol.

He apparently did not hear or see the approaching engine.

Officers said the gradeall was demolished while heavy damage resulted to the dump truck and the side of the diesel.

The engineer was H. H. Shupp of Dennison. Part of the equipment is owned by the Hatcher Construction Co. of Steubenville.

2 North Lima Men Held For Grand Jury

LISBON — Two North Lima area men were bound over to the Harrison County Grand Jury for breaking and entering and auto larceny after being apprehended Wednesday.

Amil Alfred Dinsio, 26, and Harry Chamberlain Jr., 35, both of North Lima R. D. 1, entered pleas of not guilty to the charges filed by Harrison County deputies after a chase in which a truck was ditched and the driver escaped.

A deputy observed a truck belonging to the Spoonhultz Trucking Co., and knowing these trucks are not driven after dark, gave chase and fired several shots at the fleeing driver. He radioed for help. The sheriff of Carroll County picked up Dinsio hitchhiking near the Carroll-Harrison County line a few hours later.

Bond of $2,000 on each was set by County Judge Ellis Miksell and both made bond and were released.

Columbiana County sheriff deputies obtained a warrant to search a Salem area mine, possibly connected with the case, at the request of Harrison authorities.

The sheriff of Carroll County picked up Dinsio hitchhiking near the Carroll-Harrison County line a few hours later.

Bond of $2,000 on each was set by County Judge Ellis Miksell and both made bond and were released.

Junior Editors Quiz on KNIGHTHOOD

QUESTION: There is a famous Order of Knighthood in England called the Order of the Garter. How did this term originate?

ANSWER: The Order of the Garter is perhaps the most respected order of knighthood in all England. It began around 1349, according to an old tale, at a court ball. The Countess of Salisbury lost her garter while dancing at the ball. She was quite startled and embarrassed. As the King picked up the garter and handed it to her, there were smiles and comments among the other guests. The King was angry and he said "Evil be to him who evil thinks" in French, as French was the language usually spoken at the English court. He added that he would make the little blue garter something so important that it would be sought after by everyone. No one knows whether this story it true, but the Order of the Garter is indeed sought after by all who serve their country in England. There are very few people who reach the Order of the Garter. The garter itself is dark blue velvet and gold. Written on it in golden letters are the words "Honi soit qui mal y pense," the King's "Evil be to him who evil thinks." On occasions of ceremony, Queen Elizabeth II wears the garter on her left arm above her elbow. The men in the order wear the garter on the left leg below the knee.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Ways Offered To Arouse Incentive

Yesterday we considered the large number of school children of average or superior mental ability who don't strive for excellence at school learning. Today, let us consider possible ways to help these children strive harder. Of course, the school laggards at any age differ so widely, especially in their earlier learning experineces, that it isn't easy to advise wisely concerning them, even any one of them, without a great deal of information about him. Sometimes grandparents, other relatives and interested adults find ways to inspire these youngsters with more ambition, though their efforts do sometimes boomerang.

ONE PRINCIPLE seems to have promise for practically all school laggards — finding ways for them to get better results from their learning efforts in reading, spelling, mathematics and other subjects.

The laggard must enjoy some achievement, must see that he can succeed, in order to choose to strive harder. But even when the best help in his learning is provided, he may still not choose to work hard enough to enjoy much success.

Suppose he is a child, ten or 12, who is not at home on evenings before school, views TV at hours when he should do homework, or doesn't settle down to regular evening study. Suppose he has never had reasonable discipline in mental work at home. Even if this child has a good tutor, he may not make much progress at books.

Or suppose the written work to be done by him at home is only partly done there or is done in a slovenly, careless fashion. How is this child going to achieve enough to win satisfaction and thus feel spurred on to strive harder?

IN CONTRAST, the child who has had good home discpline, from his early years before school homework begins, may achieve enough from his efforts to feel the urge to work harder. With good discipline he has learned to do all sorts of home chores well and promptly, attaining considerable excellence therefrom.

Yet no matter how nearly ideal his home guidance and discipline have been, the laggard at school may need further guidance in learning to read better, in learning good ways of studying. He may need expert help at school.

His parents may need help from the school or an outside specialist in finding ways to help him enjoy more success from his studying. Besides, he may have emotional disturbances not directly related to school learning.

There is, of course, no panacea.

Professor In Texas Hits Frog Leg Jackpot

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—To persons who like fried frogs legs, it appears that Richard J. Baldauf has hit the jackpot.

For the wildlife management professor at Texas A & M College recently found a pond wiggling with six-legged critters.

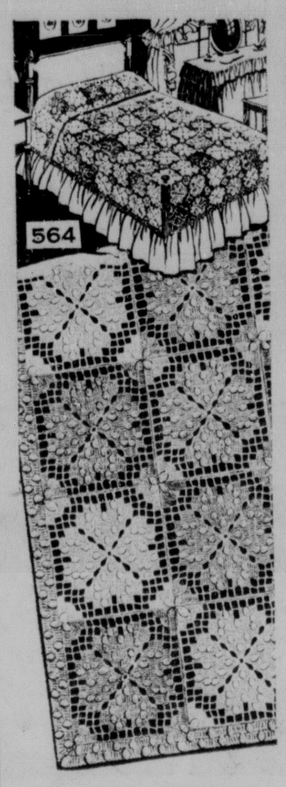

Baldauf estimates that 5 per cent of the pond's frog population has six legs.

His co-workers are urging him to put the oddball frogs into mass production for sale to restaurants. But the professor doesn't see much future in that, because, he points out, nature eliminates the abnormal.

And just in case you're wondering:

Baldauf says a six-legged frog can't jump any farther than a four-legged frog.
